QUESTIONS ABOUT EXTRATERRESTRIALS

Hello everybody

I hereby transcribe a series of questions which were asked on the website 'We are not alone' from the winter of 2010 after having released the introduction of my book 'At the Origin of All'. This 20-page introduction concerned my strange personal story up to encompass my relationships with possible extraterrestrials. This publication interlocked with my readers many relevant questions which went in all directions without having necessarily relations between them. I transcribe them here in the chronologic order they were asked with my answers tinged largely by the extraterrestrial entity Naja who expresses himself through me. I have lightly improved and completed them for a better understanding of the topic covered. I do this exercise here to demonstrate the regularity and coherence of my testimony since the very beginning of my public demonstrations.

I begin...

It has been almost one year that I have not manifested myself but my life is a whirlwind of which I do not know the reason. However, being again on vacation for 2 months in the south, I allow myself to talk of an event that happened to me this spring and which raises new questions in me.

I tell...

I am a teacher of painting in a community center and I am preparing the year end exhibit (end of April) for about forty students. The preceding Thursday night, due to conflicts with other professors for the hanging spaces, I have a sleepless night brooding over it (a very rare fact for me). The following day, starting at 8:00, very busy day, mounting, hanging and opening to the public until 21:00. Tired, around 22:00, to go back home, I hesitate between taking the bus (one hour ride as I live in the Montreal center and the community center is in periphery) or take my scooter (Puch 1978) (three quarters of an hour of travel) as it is raining a little and there are heavy winds. I decide to take my scooter and here the story turns to the supernatural.

I remember the first 10 minutes of the trip and it is like in a dream, a series of blurry memories. I fell asleep driving my scooter and I made the rest of the trip (a little bit more than 30 minutes) in a trance. Here is exactly the chronological sequence of bits and pieces of souvenirs that stayed in my memory. 1: I see at the last minute the back of a parked car which I try to avoid. 2: I am kneeling on the ground and I pick up red pieces of the car back light and put them on the bumper knowing that I cannot warn the owner. I hear 2 youngsters on the other side of the street laughing surely of my position (not very charitable). 3: I am in a convenience store asking the cashier where I am and how to get to the center of town (this road to go to work and come back I have made hundreds of time). 4: I drive as in a fog, I do not feel my body, nothing, and I say to myself where am I and what am I doing. Then, I start to concentrate repeating to myself that I am going home. In that trance and blur state, I do not recognize any places but I force myself to look at a street sign that reassures me as I recognize the name of the street. 5: My attention is drawn to the noise that my speedometer makes and it seems out of its base. 6: I see another sign indicating the name of another street (it is the second most important street I take to get home). 7: I recognize at last the houses near home. In a concentration effort, I say to myself: Colin, you must open the gate of the yard with your key, then go in the back, open the door of your locker and store your scooter. I take time to replace the speedometer, I relock all the doors and enter my apartment located on the third floor. I say to myself that I must go to bed immediately. While undressing, I notice that I am hurt on the right knee. I take time to wipe the blood that runs a little and then go to bed.

The following day, I come back to reality. I have an injury to the knee and go to see immediately if my scooter is not too damaged. It has only a mark on the handlebar and the speedometer which I fixed the night before is not well aligned. There!

Hundreds of questions came to mind. Far from being traumatized, I felt strong to have made it out but by what force? My subconscious, my superior self or exterior elements? These bits and pieces of blurred souvenirs as in a dream are all that I remember. I do not remember, after the accident, to have started my scooter again nor getting on it. I do not remember to have stopped at red lights, changed streets, stopped at the convenience store, nor even held my handlebar. I am convinced that superior forces had gotten involved but which ones?

This week there was a certain rebound through a documentary on YouTube. A woman, abducted many times by extraterrestrials, was telling that she was convinced to have had her life saved in 3 road accidents thanks to extras. She told, among others, that in an accident where she was stuck in her car and partly unconscious, she had felt the presence of a small being imposing his hands on her to treat her very damaged liver and stop an internal hemorrhage. In another case, a motorcycle, starting too rapidly, was falling on her but was shoved aside making a 90 degrees angle. I do not doubt her testimony but this brings a question. Why some abductees taken repeatedly and for a long time are protected in a so precise and individual way? Her story is not unique. What is the interest for extraterrestrials to have a follow-up so rigorous for many of their human subjects? Ah! The nice question!

Here is my opinion, as I do have one. Here, we go into my personal vision. If you have read my different posts and testimonies, you know that an extraterrestrial entity expresses himself through me for several years now (this is told in 'Story of an Illuminate'). Is this entity my superior self or likely the memory of an extra implanted in me? According to the researcher and lecturer Corrado Malanga, the extras use humans to prolong the baggage of life of some of their congeners who have no individual survival after death by transplanting it in human brains. I am deducting that it is for this reason that those selected humans are very precious for them and overprotected. For Malanga, this manipulation is very negative, near parasitic as the Alien (film) and contradicts the inviolable right of an individual. But, as his speech is without nuance, even very hateful towards the extras and that it does not spare also the other colleagues with divergent opinions, he is to be put in parentheses.

Since my individual self uses less than 10% of my brain, maybe there is a place for two. My guardian angel with whom I do not converse often enough, tells me that the extras are selfish enough in the sense that they are ready to limit me in many circumstances or stop me from expressing all my spiritual being potential if this harm their project of an implanted entity.

What to think and do with all this? I could, as many testimonies from abductees, complain the rest of my life of my poor condition of powerless victim. It is not my way of being a priori and it would also forget the great teaching I received and uncommon experiences I have lived which has transformed me for the better over the years. In the future, I will try to know more on that observation and seek to reconcile this duality in me. It is true that I have always felt protected even if my human side often felt withdrawn, even harmed, to the benefit of the extra in me. But I sincerely believe that all has its reason of being and I believe that my adventure has a sense and benefits all parties.

I do not exclude also that it is possible that my 'contactee' side extrapolates excessively on an event that can be explained otherwise.

It is my vision
Colin Christian

Hello everybody

After having read certain written messages from abductees or contactees regarding alert messages from extraterrestrials that they consider urgent to transmit in turn, I am posting here a warning. I speak knowingly having received my first messages of disasters in the early 1970's (I was 18-20 years old).

You have to know, first, that this is part of an intervention protocol well defined by senior leaders of extraterrestrial races that are watching us. Let me explain. It was agreed, among other things, at high level that each individual approached or abducted would receive a message well defined, always the same, with little or no possibility of transforming it. Basically and from memory, it consists of this: You have been chosen; your planet is in danger; risk of world war; planetary cataclysm; end of your race and possibly of your world. Send this message. Sometimes (as They know that we are emotional beings), it is shown strong images of disasters on what COULD happen if... (and not what WILL happen). In summary (and this took me many years to understand), this message was not addressed to me in particular but was transmitted to all contacted persons who were in a state to receive it; meaning not in a state of shock. These first transmitted messages are, in a unique sense, (strict procedure) as They do not expect answers from our part and mostly the extraterrestrial kidnappers are trained performers for this and have little game of maneuver or improvisation. So, do not spend all your savings to publish the message the quickest way possible as you think there is urgency! Me, I did it 40 years ago already! I had the chance to have a brother who had a little printing studio. Today, looking back, I think that I had at that time the ardor of the missionary but also the naivety of youth.

Those same messages of awareness to our destiny are diffused by Them, all around the earth, on frequencies which can be picked up by any psychologically sensitive being which explains the telepathic contactees. The extras do this on planets that need a little help or as in our case, when it is a question of survival. But it is a little more complex than that because these messages are accompanied by rains of growth; poetic term from their parts to describe the diffusion of very specific waves which promote the awakening of consciousness.

Know also that after this first stage of general influence is over, if you have, as an individual, a serious desire to undertake a dialogue with Them, it is possible that they answer your questions. The extras will then be able to give you more realistic answers on the real situation. But They will answer you always in a manner satisfying you immediately while taking into consideration your ability to understand. They are bound to influence us in the evolutionary sense even if sometimes they can use small lies as we do it a little ourselves with our own children. All action that would put in danger the psychic balance of an individual is as possible to be prohibited but nobody can control entirely the impact of their actions on the other.

A long time ago, in my youth, I thought I was an 'elected' but now, I do not have my suitcase near my front door anymore, in case... It is well in the back of a closet. But the extras continue to speak and to guide me on demand. When They sense that I have progressed somewhat by myself, They operate different transformations in me that accelerate even more my evolution. If I do not behave too much like a child (which is a feature of my personality), They confide to me things reserved to adults and preferably, to those who are open to the universe.

So, an advice from an old contactee to young contactees: Do not take all these messages to the first degree and do not be too quick to go on a crusade to convert the planet but ask instead, for messages that will concern your own evolution. They will be happy to help you. Your progress will reflect surely, sooner or later, on the whole.

P.S: It has been a long time since I have not asked myself any more questions on what is true or false, real or not. It is the greatest loss of time than to want to validate everything, prove or confirm all. The day when I understood that all information that puzzled me, all sensation that made me vibrate and all experience that made me grow, that was enough for me as proof of its legitimacy in my life. I then went from the stage of natural evolution to that of the revolution of being.

You can, of course, react to my comments.

It is my opinion
Colin Christian

Question from Einstein

Why the extras do not come to see people in a more direct and more efficient manner? It would be in their interest and maybe in ours. If they are able to contact us, could they not say to those they contact how to contact them?

Hello Einstein

To understand the principle of direct non-interference from ETs, you must compare the situation to your own way of managing your different communities. No individual on earth can travel from one country to another without explaining, even slightly at the borders, the reason of this intrusion to thus obtain an authorization or not. It is again more important when it means for an individual or even a people to directly interfere in the operation of another country.

The rest of the universe functions identically. It is not an immense chaos. Races potentially evolved on many neighbouring planets end up by uniting in federations governed by common laws or I would say, by a code of honor accepted and respected by the whole. These federations can unite in even more imposing confederations which can cover vast territories. In general, it is the ambient air identical to a group of worlds that creates the affiliation. It means that those vibratory scales and the abundance or scarcity of the primary essence in the environment create natural barriers that are difficult to cross and then limit the movements and associations from one world to another. These federations are required to respect the decisions taken by each people of a planet and cannot intervene in a conflict only if there is a request or if the conflict exceeds the boundaries of the planet. This is again more real for worlds which are not on the official territory of a federation. Some federations are however explorers of new worlds and stimulators of life.

But here is the problem. Those who created and implanted you on earth have done it let's say 'illegally' without all 'official' agreements as your system is not part of their jurisdiction. They have not only given life but actually have implanted it many times. The reason of their action was a question of survival for them. All is told in detail in the rest of my book 'At the Origin of All'. Then, after many rebounds on many millennia, it was forbidden by some high-placed authorities that all new direct interventions on earth would be forbidden till further notice. This ban is still in force. If there are extras that contact certain governments, either they do it illegally or they are not aware, at first glance, of this ban. There is a bit of vagrancy even in the universe.

So what is allowed at this moment as intervention is what is quoted in my first post. Also, to our great misfortune, it is imposed on official extras not to leave any direct trace of their presence. Here is a simple example drawn from my case that happened a while ago. For those who have read my story, at the famous hypnosis session where the entity Naja manifested himself for the first time through me, the session of 4 hours was recorded on two cassettes of 1:30 hour each. The conversation is audible in the first cassette but the second one has a static (parasite) so high that my words are completely incomprehensible. I want to point out that all was recorded with a good microphone, a good quality recorder and all this done in a closed room without windows. During the whole session, I stayed sensibly conscious and it seems from memory that the revelations were not too incriminatory. Anyway, two hypotheses come to mind. Either at that time I began already to disrupt the electrical devices as today sometimes with computers or maybe they went to great lengths so there is no embarrassing trace left: Not to 'amuse' themselves with me as a cat with a mouse but because it is a decree of high authority that they must respect imperatively.

Sorry if I am talkative but there are not too many sites that give me this freedom of expression. Maybe I am also a bit too affirmative and direct but I have the merit at least of not staying in the evasive. Such as: Hello! I am a contactee, I receive messages but I cannot talk.

It is my vision
Colin Christian

Einstein

Already, I am looking forward to the end of your testimony and then you say that the ETs have an interdiction of direct contact but how long does this interdiction last? 2 days? 10 years? A billion years?

Well, me, I would not say I am jealous but on what criteria do They choose the persons they contact?

As we can read it in your story with Naja, you have a rather heavy past living your previous lives.

But after, I would like to take the problem backwards. Why if 'I' would want to get in contact with Them, could They not simply be able to give me this boost in order to 'debate'? As you so rightly said: It is pointless to go on a crusade to convert the whole planet.

For the persons who would be volunteers to at least help, how to do this? Surely, we could arrive at a concept of information exchange (as you said, they filter quite a lot), but at least, we would show that we care about this small planet (even though the Mars planet has always attracted me).

Question from Azimut

Hello Colin Christian, I have many questions:

Do they intend to intervene in order to save us before we self-destruct?

If so, what do they intend to do exactly?

Why can't we join their alliance? Is it because we are illegal at the base?

Hello everybody

I will attempt to answer all your questions but I am a bit limited as I type on the keyboard with two fingers at a time only. Also, if I answer with a certain delay, it is because in the small village where I am on vacation at this moment in the south, the internet does not work every day. As usual, my language will be direct and without hesitation. It is because I am only a transmitter who applies himself to remove as much as possible the filters between Them and me. So, in fact, I don't think too much about what I write (strange sentence). It is for that reason that I always sign 'It is my vision' on top of my name to temper the content of my messages.

It would also be good to read my other interventions on different subjects in other posts which can contain relevant information. The story of an illuminate (at the beginning of my book 'At the Origin of All') well describes my adventure in the paranormal field and the more voluminous sequel of my book is the long story of the extraterrestrial entity that expresses himself through me. His baggage of knowledge is a huge amount of information to understand Them (see on my site; cosmologie-extraterrestre.com).

I will try answering to Einstein on the possible duration of the interdiction of direct contact with extras. You have to understand that this interdiction coming from high ranking entities was issued a long time ago (over 200 thousand years) at a time when your whole solar system was living disruptions that threatened other worlds around. That could have improved but the game has unfortunately changed since you have started recently to use nuclear power. The risk of a major large-scale disruption, which I explain in another post, is the reason (read my text 'Why, the extraterrestrials...') On top of the interdiction of direct contact, you were quarantined along with your whole solar system. You are not aware that you threaten, with your nuclear experiments, the life of a whole ecosystem which goes well beyond your planet: As in a sick body, the cancerous cells should be isolated so they do not spread to other healthy parts. The universe is a celestial body which cannot afford to live under constant threat of a harmful propagation. It is the best comparison that I could use. So, the communication ways in both directions are cut and will be re-established only when all possibilities of massive destruction will be totally eliminated. Then, we will be able to talk contacts and exchanges. The extras can contain, limit up to a certain point the earthlings in their awkwardness if this threatens a more vast territory but cannot force them to change their behavior because of the obligation to respect the honor code of non-interference.

We understand that many earthlings are marvelous beings and deserve our respect and this is for that reason that we continue to protect and do everything so that no catastrophe happens. We protect you against yourselves and unfortunately also, if needed, despite yourselves. Under many levels, you are our 'illegitimate children' that we cannot abandon. But because of all your politics, still too primitive, we cannot think at this moment of integration into our federation.

For Lemulot who would love to meet them and learn a few tips, know that it is difficult for me to answer this question because in my case, I do not believe having wanted this. There surely was an important reason for that contact which I just began to understand only recently. I will tell you a secret, don't tell anybody. Harmonium, in one of his messages, slipped a word of it. (I could not find his post). Some humans would be the reincarnation or the extension of extraterrestrial entities from the past that the extras from today are able to locate. They do not want to lose their life experiences nor their knowledge which could be for Them a precious inheritance of their own history. It is one of the reasons for the tracking of many earthlings along with the one for the genetic and vibratory quality of some in relation to the original creation. What comes out of this finding, it is that an extra entity does not express himself through me, it is me, only more vast. This is what has made me interesting for Them. How many humans are in the same situation without being conscious of it or only partially; but I do not ask myself too many questions on the other types of contactees.

All this to tell you that we cannot contact them only out of curiosity or for a simple desire of evasion. You will understand that they consider the situation to be serious and they are not here as tourists ready to sympathize with each and every one. Nevertheless, if a have a suggestion to make to meet them, the first condition is to find the wavelength, the frequency on which they issue their warning messages and if you begin to pick them up, maybe they will notice you at the end of the line. If not, you simply have to start an inner true dialogue with Them while gazing at a spot in a starry sky and this being done without expectation. You must only do it while specifying well your intentions and with the sincere desire to opening up to something greater. I'm sorry but right now, that is all I can say on how to contact them. But with the thorough reading of my first book, a click can occur which will lend to a trail to follow.

To answer to Azimut on a possible self-destruction, all the potential solutions have been discussed concerning their intervention. The absolute control of all nuclear on earth by them is a thing done. I repeat a very serious sentence I said in another post 'If the extraterrestrials had not indirectly intervened all along these last years to repair the 'awkwardness' of humans, there would be no more form of life on earth actually'. The direct interventions are planned as a last resort only like your total extermination was examined also as an extreme solution. But, do you now understand why this will not be done as your patrimony should be saved as one splendid race with an immense potential. All possible interventions have been explored and all were put in place as a precaution. It is up to you to determine the outcome.

You have been created of a rare perfection (but not yet realized) and put on a planet not being in a sector of the universe which could favour entirely your full development. We also can make mistakes and since this sector is not under our jurisdiction, we do not have the right to directly intervene unless the reason is very important, indeed vital and mostly approved by our superiors. Other less evolved federations (more prone to the submission of people) may claim these locations because your planetary system is situated in their sector. But this claim is stopped at the moment because our rights and obligations towards you have been maintained by superior races.

You are then a special case and to tell you the truth, even if your departure into that world was a 'mistake', your evolution interests lots of people since it is a matter of knowing if the complex life, suitable to build civilizations, can prosper in remote corners of the universe, even hostile at first glance. Your history already serves as an example to consider in the future to dare attempt the same experience in worlds still evolving.

In conclusion, if you are not concerned directly by this whole story, live in peace in your everyday life and do your best daily for the survival of your planet. It is not asked more of you. For others, I hope to have shed some light a little, otherwise, I will answer your new questions.

Question from Azimut

A big thank you for your answers Colin Christian!

Since you seem to know a lot, can I ask you a large number of questions coming to my head? (For many years I have been passionate about the ETs). Thank you very much.

Reflection from Thib7

I will probably look skeptical but all this seems a bit too detailed to be true...

Hello everybody

I would like, first, to answer to the reflection from Thib7 which is commendable and which I had suspected would come inexorably. Can a text appear false because it is too precise as for the opposite, can a text too blurry be also false? Is there a middle ground between unequivocal affirmation and systematic doubt which would be more credible to some. It is normal in a discussion on a subject to issue opinions, reservations and even contrary points of view but here, we talk about testimony. All right, it is a hypothetical entity of extraterrestrial origin who expresses himself through me but in any event, he tells about his experiences on subjects he knows. Naja will not put before each sentence expressions of these types: I believe having lived...It seems to me having felt...I doubt but I am not sure that...This would make his testimony heavier and I do not know anyone who tells his experiences that way except if there is a precise doubt to be formulated on an item in particular. I know this can surprise that I am able to testify this way but having written numerous texts, it is all natural and self-evident for me. After 40 years of this type of inner dialogue, I am no longer at the period of the neophyte scepticism.

Someone I had accepted to tell a part of my story asked me, one day, if the fact to be of a solitary nature, to have a lot of imagination and feel different, could it have brought me to believe that I was in contact with extraterrestrials? I answered, maybe, as I do not exclude any hypothesis. However, if it was the contrary; if it was because they have contacted me that I became solitary with time, that I have visions and I feel different.

It must also be understood that it has been a long time ago that I have passed the stage to always want to find proofs of my every discoveries and reflections. I have replaced the concept of what is true versus what is false, by the one that all is true. Everything we imagine exists already in the universe because our brain, made with the same matter as the universe, can imagine only possibilities already included in the creation. Our potential and our limits are, first, commensurate with our endorsed body vehicles and our place of residence for now. Then, secondly, we have as perspective of imagination the whole universe and what it contains of choices and experiences. All our beliefs help to be able to function in a place, at a given time and in a precise circumstance. It is the truth of the moment. All truth becomes false, or I could say, becomes less true by the discovery of a truth more adapted to new parameters of our lives. If the being is really evolving, each new truth will be broader than the preceding one and will encompass it. Adoring the sun as a god does not become false when we discover that the whole universe is divine.

I made a major evolutionary leap when I understood that all personal experience or all testimony of another which touched sensitive chords in me was enough to dwell on it. What was important, it is that the results brought me in a state of consciousness opening without telling me if it was true or false as we can evolve either in reading a true story as well as a fictional one. It is a loss of precious time to want to prove everything. For the other truths which leave me indifferent, I do not judge them as false but irrelevant for my actual evolution.

If what I tell is too precise and is told in an affirmative tone, I am sorry but that is part of the way Naja expresses himself. Me, Colin, I can express reservations on the content but that would not add anything useful to the comments as Naja testifies of his experiences, that's all. He has no doubts about himself or his life experiences and if what he says is a hypothesis, he will say it. Be sure also that if Naja does not know the subject of a question, he will not invent just to make himself interesting. He is well enough already (humor). I am very conscious that as Colin, I have my own personality and I could tinge the texts beyond measure but it has been a long time since he did not have to rap me over the knuckles. At the beginnings of our relation, when I was fiddling his words to do well, he would systematically correct me. Nevertheless, I must say that as Naja is a part of me and our personalities intermingle, the texts are often written with an intertwining of me, him and Them. I sometimes also make corrections so that it is not entirely written from the pen of Naja as not to perturb you too much. So, the source of the comments must appear sometimes a little blurred I might add (humor).

To answer to new questions from Azimut and Einstein, I am applying myself but I did not have any feedback as to know if some of you have begun to read the whole story of Naja. In the complete book, many of your questions find their answers and in detail. Azimut, almost half of your questions have an answer inside. Even if the whole story of Naja would be a pure invention of my too fertile brain, this would not take away the charm of the story nor its possibility to make you evolve. In any case, I will answer your questions at my turtle pace.

It is my vision
Colin Christian

Hello everybody

Hello Azimut

All your questions have excited my neurons and indirectly, the entity who expresses himself through me. It is no said that I will be able to redo this exercise often but here is what we think of it. Those who have read my texts up to date have understood that I use an affirmative tone of language not to seem owner of the truth but that it is my way of expressing. It is because I have great respect for those who have created this site which allows too many people to express themselves freely and intelligently that I let also myself transmit a part of my knowledge gained. You can, without any problem, consider it only as hypothesis. Its goals are to just let you see my vision. You are free to accept it or not. If my hypotheses resonate a sensitive chord in you, so much the better.

Question from Azimut.

What did they think of Fukushima? Have they made any decisions following this event?

Naja

The control of armament and nuclear installations on earth by the extraterrestrials is total. It is not the first planet nor the first civilization to discover the nuclear and minimize their risks. So, it has been a long time since the extras have developed a whole arsenal to control this dangerous power. Without this absolute control installed more than 40 years ago here, there would actually be no more form of life on earth. We have lost count of the interventions by Them to minimize the damages. Many examples abound in this direction. Testimonies from American ex-militaries, accessible on the internet, describe the flights of UFO over their bases causing the complete deactivation at distance of all the nuclear missile heads. At the Tchernobyl incident, the core of the reactor was ready to melt down, evidence of an eminent explosion which would have thrown a radioactive cloud over a great part of Europe but 'miraculously' the process was stopped in progress. The technicians congratulated themselves to have avoided the worst without taking into account the UFO that flew over the site. The extras have often absorbed the fumes of atomic bomb explosions to limit the disastrous consequences. The scientists, too sure of themselves, perceive only a biased facet of their experiments. And here's the problem! By putting out secretly so many fires lit by children playing with matches, adults end up making them believe that their actions are not that serious. The more the extraterrestrials repair the blunders of earthlings, the more these allow themselves to take risks. Will it take, as at Fukushima, to let the situations degenerate enough to scare really the unconscious and reckless and indirectly, also incite the populations to react? But the extras have considered many other alternatives before jeopardizing the lives of people. I explain to where the nuclear risks go in the section; your theories 'Do not read this if you are a believer like me' transcribed in my text 'Why so many extraterrestrial and spiritual beings are interested in us'.

Question from Azimut.

Why in UFO crashes, the extras do not hurry to retrieve the debris so to avoid certain proofs?

The extras do it when they can but do not consider it relevant to risk a confrontation with militaries for debris or even a whole flying engine. Some extraterrestrials have a fragile constitution in our atmosphere and fear the unpredictable and violent roughness of our soldiers. For the extraterrestrial peoples I know, their vessels are of a difficult nature to understand for earthlings, even less for militaries (joke). They are made of a half-mineral, half-biological material, in the proportions varying from one vessel to another and having the particularity to be equipped with a certain consciousness meaning intelligence with a certain autonomy. Broken or dismembered gravely, as an animal, their state brings a quite rapid disaggregation of those which are most biological or a state of calcification for those which are most mineral. This context makes them hardly usable or fixable because they don't have their original properties anymore which take out also their exceptional quality as proof. For the complete crashes of vessels, without the frequencies emanating from their real conductor, it is almost impossible to get the least reaction. Nevertheless, even if they are still in working order at their capture, they are 'programmed' to be sensitive to good intentions as well as bad ones and react consequently. They can become inert, in other words, play dead. They are considered alive by the extras. I can compare this for you to a cowboy on his horse living a partnership. This reflection relates to races evolved enough to master the manipulation of the conscious matter.

Question from Azimut.

Are the Men in black extraterrestrial entities? Who are they? Where do they live?

Naja

Never having discussed this with Colin, I am unable to transmit the information which is too weird for his abilities.

Question from Azimut.

Who was Jesus and God? What were their goals?

Naja

I can only say this: Jesus at the origin was a man like any other, born normally but extremely curious and quick-witted. It is with time that he sought to understand more and more mysteries up to the whole reason of life. This has brought him to be interested and open to different beliefs through initiations. He was rewarded one day of his efforts by the fact that a superior extraterrestrial entity revealed himself in him and has propelled him to a very high level of knowledge and abilities. He was then called Jesus Christ because of this double identity. This text only unveils a little and it is wanted this way for the moment.

What is the definition of God? I will be a little more serious and give details to say to you what the extraterrestrials I know have explained to me as to what they have discovered on the concept of God. For them, ALL that exists in the universe comes from and is made of essence, a single and unique primary energy which, in reflecting on itself, has created a multitude of vibrations. Those vibrations, by turning on themselves, have formulated a multitude of envelopes which have defined all that exists in the known universe including all the possible frequency plans. They consider that primary energy as divine because it is indestructible, hence eternal and immutable. It can transform, adapt, become more complex in its manifestations but it never loses its primary quality to be eternal therefore without beginning or end. On the basis of this finding, they have discovered that the black holes in the center of each galaxy were that highly concentrated energy which orchestrated the gyratory movements of each galaxy and that the dark matter present in the whole universe was in fact also that energy in a pure state (without form). After, they discovered a gigantic black hole at the center of the universe which governed the global whole. While comparing their discovery with the functioning of their own entity, they have come to the conclusion, with evidence, that the whole universe was a gigantic living organism, conscious and that we therefore live in it but at a microscopic level. That gigantic organism can be called, with good reason, God because we depend on him; it is him who insufflates our conscience to exist and in return, we give a sensory perception of his universe from within. From that derive the sentences as 'We have been created in his likeness' 'God is everywhere and in us'. We are ourselves a God for all forms of life which inhabit us and which constitute our entity. It is a perfect symbiosis where benefits accrue to each party. For God, we are very important because we are his internal senses that permanently transmit information which allows him to be conscious of himself. I believe that you are perspective enough to make all possible analogies between your personal universe and the entire universe. In my book 'At the Origin of All', the subject is well explained. If you take the time to read it carefully, all the questions described above on God receive information thanks to discoveries made by certain extraterrestrial peoples. They are not necessarily absolute truths but positive concepts usable in your day-to-day life for a greater well-being.

Question from Azimut.

What will happen the day the universe will be closed in on itself? (The big crunch). Have the ETs found an emergency solution?

Naja

If I understand your question well, you refer to the opposite phenomena of the big bang. First, the concept of the big bang for the extras is not very credible because it starts from the premise that if the universe is in expansion, it is because there has been at the point of departure an explosion. This is the conclusion of their research. They are convinced that the expansion of the universe is due to the same phenomena as we live in our physical body. It is the breathing of a gigantic being in the making. When we inhale, the air penetrates in us and our rib cage takes expansion and when we exhale, the air is expelled and our body contracts. The universe has, in its center, an immense primary energy source which in deploying and coming back on itself, has created all form of matter. This movement is so slow that it can only be calculated with a certain vertigo. Therefore, the universe is in the process of inhaling at this moment because the matter is in expansion while its energy is coming back to its center. Returned to its limit of expansion, it will expire and its energy will deploy while its matter will come back towards its center. This will go up to a certain concentration of all form of matter which will define it in a stable space without dying or being destroyed. It will simply be more compact. There will be a downtime period equal to the time of the two other phenomena, laying down life as in a state of rest and the three cycles will start again.

The analogy of the breathing in three steps of any living being is not fortuitous. We originate from this universe and we are then its replica at a tiny scale. We live in the inside of a hardly measurable being in size and unimaginable in its global appearance. But what is certain, it is not ready to die out because we are living at this moment in a long colossal inhalation of this God-universe. This will be followed by a gigantic exhalation and of course, with many other cycles of breathing. For those who have a vivid imagination, know that the extras suspect that he may not be the only one of its kind.

Question from Azimut.

Does there exist anything after life? (If yes, can we meet extraterrestrials there? Will I see again people from my entourage who are deceased?)

Naja

The whole concept of survival after death, according to the extras, is largely detailed in many pages of my manuscript "At the Origin of All" and this in its simplest implications. For Them, it has been a long time since these concepts are not just beliefs but rather actual facts resulting from their serious scientific research. However, you must know that some of their discoveries could surprise you, even shock some and even consequently upset their actual beliefs. Thus, to read with an open mind.

Question from Azimut.

Do the pyramids have anything to do with the ETs?

Naja

That subject was addressed by me in the post 'The sphinx and its mysteries' in the category 'Construction and antique artefacts'. I would add, following this testimony, that many pyramids were, originally, energy generators (non-electric) which could supply different sophisticated equipment of extraterrestrial origin. But then, with the loss of the real knowledge of their functioning and the disappearance of tools that they supplied, their constructions became more symbolic than utilitarian.

Here is however the full transcript of my intervention on the subject.

The sphinx and the pyramids have always fascinated, throughout time, those who have contemplated them. Their enigmatic origins gave rise to all possible speculations which certain are closer to the truth and others, wander from it. I will give you my version and you can do with it as you please.

The sphinx already existed, more than 14000 years ago and was a vestige of a previous civilization even before the coming of the Atlantean people in these regions. I have no memory that there were other functions than to testify of the grandeur of a culture which reached its peak during the era of the Lion; as the symbol of Taurus, Aries and even Pisces will be for many peoples that will follow in the subsequent eras.

The Atlanteans, which I know more about, prepared themselves at that time to a planetary catastrophe. They suspected then that their place of residence would be ruined in the waters. They decided to transport their knowledge and technology, among others, in that region of the Nile that they determined stable enough. During this period, that territory which is part of the actual Egypt, had a rather lush vegetation favorable to the emergence of a prosperous new era. Expecting the worst, some underground spaces were built to house what they had the most precious, the archives of their history, the most beautiful art works and their sophisticated equipment including even flying engines of small and middle sizes.

The orbit of the earth on its axis had for a long time a weakness which brought it, at approximately every 15000 years, to undergo an imbalance, bringing a whole lot of upheaval followed with a readjustment. As expected, a series of planetary catastrophes followed by torrential rains struck the world. There were at least 500 years of turbulence before a certain climatic stability was established. That long difficult passage had the effect of demoralizing the survivors and a good part of the knowledge including the use and repair of their technology got lost in progeny.

It was then decided, before the few remaining resources would disappear, to construct several pyramids in particular places of the earth to at last stabilize its axis and for a long period. It was a request becoming urgent by the people still traumatized by all these endless climatic ordeals. The leaders could only comply because their roles were to be, most of all, at the service of their people. It is strange for me that you have thought for a long time and still today that a pharaoh could be so megalomaniac as to sacrifice thousands of lives to construct buildings dedicated to his own glory or to receive his remains. Nevertheless, the vestiges of technologic instruments still operating at that time were sufficient for the realization of that project.

In the comments on that post, this hypothesis does not seem to have been raised. Nevertheless, in the years 70 and 80, many marginal and eccentric were having fun by building pyramids with all kinds of materials and of different sizes. The result was sensibly always the same; they would attract and focus on energy in its center which had the property of being revitalizing. We could put inside perishable goods that, as a result, had their duration of life prolonged; some would put old rusty razor blades which would get a second life. All sorts of experiences like these were done by individuals to prove the potential of the energy concentrator of the pyramids of all kinds. If this works on a small level, you can only imagine the colossal capacities of a pyramid like Khéops; and it was well this primary function for which it was built. Its precise dimension is to the extent of its role facing the earth. In a few words, it was an immense sensor and accumulator of revitalizing energy which, if it was working well, was then directed towards the telluric veins of the earth which are close, under the surface. Combined with many other pyramids wisely distributed, that reinforced automatically the balance and the stability of the whole planet.

If they were useful for other functions afterwards, I don't doubt it; like make believe to decadent leaders, usurping the noble title of pharaoh, that they could prolong their lives and even achieve immortality by exposing themselves to radius in the central part. It had been a long time that, at the core of certain of these pyramids, the condenser did not function any more or had been destroyed. With the deterioration of the exterior coating which served to attract and retain the energies, that made several even less efficient.

No need for thousands of slaves with torturers for their constructions. A device type, still usable at that time and which we could call 'magnetic repulsor', had the capacity of capturing the frequency of a mass and by the tuning of its opposite frequency could raise it and push it in front of you. Do not ask me the real way of its operation because I do not know more. Like most of you, I am not a technician even if I can use every day a technology that is beyond me. Different formats of that device served for different weights of objects up to being able to move a big section of a mountain. But these devices also ended up not functioning anymore because of the lack of understanding of their internal mechanisms and therefore how to repair them.

I also remember that many peoples, afterwards, have attempted, by the sweat of their brow, to build constructions more or less similar to those of the Atlanteans. It was in the hope of rebuilding a lost golden age but still well alive in the collective memory. They remembered vaguely the fabulous powers of these titanic buildings. They were convinced that their realization, how painful they may be, would guarantee them a radius of energy around that would protect and strengthen their civilization which was partially true.

In closing, if a barrier is built around these vestiges, you can be sure that the discovery is colossal. This had never been done before according to my knowledge on any other archaeological site. With all the technology of today to sound the seabed and the depths of the soil, nothing in the sands at that place must have any secrets at this time. Most of the devices originally buried before the disaster, were used afterwards and have then been destroyed with time. But what is still left must be significant. If this was possible, I would like to retrieve my personal vessel which must still function even after all these years. No matter how hard they would try to get in and make it work, no use, it is me who has the key (humor).

Colin

That was a beautiful story that I have transcribed. I do not control the source that dictated it to me, just a little the hand handling the pen.

In America (places of all extremes, from strict conservatism to liberalism without limit), there are a few archaeologists who are not afraid to associate themselves with sensitive mediums for help in their excavations on historic sites. The mediums, while wandering on the premises or in touching certain artefacts, can feel and even visualize the whole framework of an ancient period. That can include houses in their original state, inhabitants with their clothing, their daily lifestyle and can even feel their experience from within. This sharing with archaeologists can help them to advance more rapidly in their research and thus avoid tedious years in exploring too many useless avenues. It goes without saying that the testimony of the mediums is perceived as a precious help, even a serious lead but not as finality, a conclusion in itself. It is a job that I would have liked to have done. Not the archaeologist one, the other.

The conclusion of the documentary-film 'The revelation of the pyramids' (which I greatly appreciated) is that the ring of pyramids around the earth would be a warning (under the form of an immense clock) of a possible episodic catastrophe due to the displacing of magnetic poles. This hypothesis-conclusion is true because any object rotating in an angle not perfectly vertical (as a spinning top which starts to incline more and more) end up by bringing a complete tilting. The earth has sustained many failovers of that type in the past (around one every 20 thousand years) but what is not said nor expected in that film, is that in addition to being a huge complex to warn us of a future catastrophe, that is also its solution. This ring of pyramids (gigantic condenser of energy which is insufflated after into the veins of the earth) was built to solve the problem by stabilizing the axis of the earth and not only to warn the people of the future. This project was colossal for that reason. The earthlings forget the enormous importance of mountain chains on the stability of rotation of a planet.

Question from Azimut.

Have the ETs ever prevented us from an invasion by defending us against other races?

Naja

Yes. (Concise answer). Topic covered in another of my writing.

Question from Azimut.

What is the resource used by the ETs to travel?

Naja

The extras I know use two principal propulsion means. But I've got to inform you that no extensive scientific notion is accessible to me without a great effort due to the fact of my formation and culture. I can simply say that they use, for long distance travel, currents circulating throughout the universe which connect numerous key points. These currents have been mostly mapped with time and the extras have learned to use them without making any effort to propel themselves inside except for controlling the speed which can be vertiginous in some of these paths. Your birds going without effort from an air current to another by gliding are a good comparison. Some highly evolved beings can also use stars to make almost instant transportation between them because they are connected by hyper powerful currents. Their understanding and uses go with the acceptation that the universe is a gigantic being and, as us, it is permeated by fluids and energetic currents connected by vital points (places of transit). The study of Chinese acupuncture is also a good approach for understanding the phenomena.

The second means of propulsion which is for short distances and for a more precise control of their movements is based on the attractions and repulsions of magnetic fields. By their controls, they can use all large targeted masses and thereafter, choose to move away from them or go near. Whether it is a planet, a mountain or a large boulder, they tune into its frequency and then play with its attraction or repulsion. But all this is done in a rapid and spontaneous way by the intelligence of the vessels. The conductor establishes an intimate connection with his device and the driving is more a matter of feeling than of an activated handle. (Colin) I admit that I am quite ignorant for all that is going on inside our technologic devices; a fortiori on those of the extras as I do not have the vocabulary or brain trained for it.

Question from Azimut.

How did they succeed in developing without killing each other and dealing with pollution?

Naja

First, you must know that the whole universe comes from a single essence/energy which has adopted all the forms we know. This essence is thus present everywhere in the universe as the basic informal state and formal by vibratory shock. Nevertheless, it is more abundant in general near the central source of many galaxies. What you call black holes and can be found at the center of each galaxy is the strongest concentration (outside the mega black hole at the center of our known universe). On the other hand, it is less and less abundant when we move away from these centers; as in your planetary system which is in periphery of your galaxy. All this to tell you that the world of extras I know is born in an ambient air where that energy was more abundant which allowed these peoples to start their civilization to a level that we could qualify of already advanced; as that substance, even at the almost informal state, has the propriety of conveying information, consciousness, wisdom emitted by all forms of lives and at the same time penetrate easily with that baggage all other conscious lives. It is difficult to describe all the qualities of that essence. In a few words, the more abundant it is in the air, the more it promotes awareness and by fluid exchanges, it accelerates evolution. Its concentration also ensures that there is less difference and distance between beings and thus their envelopes are more permeable to influences.

Certain peoples have even learned to concentrate this essence 'artificially' around their world to stabilize at first their moods, control their defects, diseases, undesirable behaviours and protect also their planet from the sometimes hostile exterior environment. Afterwards, they have been able to accelerate, in a major way, their evolution at all levels. Nevertheless, there is always a risk of being too disconnected from its real habitat; in other words from the specific position of their world in space. It is not always easy to find the balance between discovery and integration. There are civilizations being born in worlds where the basic energy is so abundant that they already have, at the starting point, a high level of perfection. Only the desire of some peoples or individuals to descend into darker worlds (further from the center) will make them aware of all the errors which are unfortunately devolved. My answer might be incomplete because I could have talked of these peoples I know which have gone through the same challenges as you have and come out of it.

I have not answered all the questions asked but, mainly, those that caught my attention and of course, in the way I saw fit. I give myself the liberty of choosing. My writing will space for a while as, after two months of vacation, I return to class next Monday (professor of painting). This will give you a rest from my interventions.

Reflection from Ezech

Hello Colin

I understand some things you are saying and they are confirmed also internally. Nevertheless, if I may, is it not a bit reductive than to say that all contactees receive necessarily the same message? Are all the contactees sensibly at the same levels of elevation? Is it not possible that each receive according to what he is adapted to receive? Furthermore, are all contactees being reached inevitably by the same race? Is it possible that from one race to another, the message or knowledge may be somewhat different? Are these different races necessarily at the same level of evolution? And if they are not, could then the messages or knowledge given to contactees be different according to the goal or elevation of each race?

Personally, as an example, I think that the earth, the sun, etc. are alive at the same level than a man, with a Soul. I also think that the extraterrestrials are very conscious of it and communicate also with it. I do not think that they would allow their destructions, as for Them the earth, the sun, etc. are precious as well if not more than man. Let's not underestimate their capacities. They are great. They have the power to save the earth and man and even restore everything we would be unable to do today. Of course, it is a modest example of what I can think of. On the other hand, for all that is vibratory, on this, I completely agree with you.

I would say that it is like a wave that would resonate at 100 of frequency and even reached at 99, that would not pass but at 100, everything goes off very rapidly. Then, the one who manages in a way or another to resonate at the right vibratory wave, the extras will manifest quickly. This concerns, I think, what you call the contactees in my opinion. But it is also possible to see some if the person is simply at the right time, in the right place. Nevertheless, there will be only observation and not telepathy, etc.

Cordially

P.S. Small reflection: The human being uses only a tiny part of his capacities as, precisely, his carnal mind stays terrestrial for the moment. But as soon as he will reach a cosmic level, he will forcibly use more of his capacities, as for example, heal himself by spirit etc. The universe is also governed by ordained laws. I think that man, as our solar system, is an integral part of this body that is the universe and he is able to heal himself in full. As some say, we are a virus and the universe knows how to intervene and regulate all this. It will surely not let in its body a disease propagate, as us, if we would have the capacity to intervene in ourselves consciously. I do not know if I am clear in my comments. The human being makes a whole with the universe and the universe has all its abilities. We should not necessarily confound with our own way of seeing things with its limits. The universe, without any problem, will make of us what it wishes as we are in its body. There is no worry to have. The man will end up integrating this whole and take his true role in that body. Then, from virus, the universe will be able to transform it in vaccine. It is a lot more intelligent than to destroy. Once more, it is only a way also to see things.

Your message is a nod to a warning about the fact that we can self-destruct etc. I would personally say no because before we even dare use nuclear power, they will have the abilities to block and remotely disable everything. It is from this that I allow myself to say, with no offense to anyone, that they have the ability to anticipate and achieve their goals. Let us remember that they are a lot more intelligent than humans at this moment.

Naja

Hello Ezech.

Thank you for your reflections which demonstrate an inner sensibility and depth.

With respect to transmitted messages which you might not have understood well, the extras have decided that all abducted or contacted persons would receive an identical basic message warning them of a potential risk of self-destruction of the human race. The information could have been picked up and interpreted by each to his understanding. From that, if the person wanted to go further and establish a real dialogue with Them, this was possible if the other party would also be interested. As for the number of extraterrestrial races that are around us at this moment, they are limited to about 5 basic ones and as many who collaborate from afar. Do not forget that the earth is at this moment under high surveillance because of the nuclear power and that a vast territory has been circumscribed. Nobody can enter in this solar system until further notice and the mandated races to protect you from yourself make their decisions jointly. Their actions and their diffusions are identical according to higher instructions. Since according to Them, the situation is serious, no improvised personal initiative from an individual or group is authorized and tolerated without an official agreement. I could even say that everything starts from above.

I encourage you to read, if this is not already done, in the theory section 'Do not read this if you are a believer like me' where I go further in my reflection on the messages sent by Them. I will say something here that is a little disturbing but which completes well this intervention. The messages received, either from the Pleadians, Cirius, Orion, Ramtha, Kryon, the violet ray, Asthar, Michael and even from Jesus, have value only by the depth of the content of their messages and their power to transform us into a better being. The veracity of their origins is for me to be put in parentheses because some beings are ready, if needed, to lie to us on many levels for us to wake up. Some will also take the appearance of what they believe the most likely to influence us therefore convince us. It is then only in the content of their messages that we can identify their worthy or condemnable intentions. Does the information create an ill-being or well-being? They are even ready to make believe to an individual without malice that they are the reincarnation of Christ if that can make him want to convert all his fellows to his cause (which is theirs). I speak knowingly from the fact that I have been, in my long life, around many elected ones and many Jesus. It is not by mockery or vice they do it but because they consider us as children not yet able to understand all their real reasons or actions. Are they wrong to think that? I don't comment on that.

It is my vision
Colin Christian

Reflection from Ezech

Hello Colin

Yes, for sure, I think they have a common goal and then, naturally, I think a base, a common message. But personally, from my part, I did not receive that message but, without saying, the human being is intelligent enough to understand it himself. I think that I had already understood it by myself before even their visit. I am a believer also and I understand very well what you are referring to. It is unfortunate, yes, that in all religions, I think that there are illuminates who automatically think they are Jesus or other as Buddha, etc. It is often as in reincarnation, many say to you that you are the reincarnation of a famous person but rarely the one of a simple peasant, etc. I have gone through a little the 17 pages of your book. It is interesting and it is good that you can write down what in fact you receive from inside. But if they are counting on me... I am a pretty poor ambassador. Looking forward. Colin.

Question from Ummo

Hello Colin Christian.

It is interesting what you are telling in your story but I have a question all the same which I have always wondered. It might be ridiculous for some but I ask it anyway. I will try to explain. When a relative of your family (father or mother) in their youth saw a UFO style mother ship or simply a circular vessel and that, years after, one of their children or many members of the family see also a UFO, is it a chance or a coincidence? Is there any link and has this been planned that a few years later the UFOs would come back to show themselves again? Is it lucky to simply see them again or is it premeditated by them?

Colin

Hello Ummo

To see UFOs can be quite common if you live in the country or if you love looking at the sky often. A distant observation or a very close one does not have the same significance and impact. Nevertheless, some families of humans are under surveillance from the extras and such over several generations. We must not doubt any more that one of the investigation fields of the extras is genetics and the research of candidates who have the most potential according to their experiment criteria. I will add that the extras research the terrestrials who have kept the most intact possible the genetic baggage from the start of their creation and that must be verified on many generations. For some, the surveillance results in an abduction. There are many testimonies of people that know they were abducted and who have discovered with astonishment that their parents were also: Others, with horror, that their children continued that perturbing relation. Despite the drawbacks, we must believe that all this is done in a humanitarian purpose to save the splendid race we are. At this moment, it is the good intentions that prevail but we must exercise our discernment in all circumstances. Being under surveillance can imply also that we are chosen for a vast project of safeguard which we can't imagine in its implications.

The near observation from UFO inter-generation is one thing and having doubts on a possible abduction is another. Only you know the answer.

Reflection from Ummo

Hello Christian

What you are saying makes me wonder in the sense that my mother and me, it is exactly like that. My mother is followed the same as me. So, the fact that you are talking about this... Do you know more about why?

Thank you for your answer as it is an interesting one. From my part, I do not really know if was abducted but I would be inclined to say no. But once in my life, I saw strange persons; a blond couple all dressed in black on the street. They were not moving, staying still and laughing. At times, they were smiling while looking at people walking ahead of them. In passing near them, I had a strange sensation as if I knew that they were not coming from our planet. I asked myself the question in my head like what if you are sisters or brothers from space (let's say it like this), look at me and give me a sign. They turned towards me with a smile, a wink and a yes sign with the head. I was surprised at that moment as I did not really believe that they would turn around.

Colin

Hello Ummo

Your experience is very interesting even if we do not have the whole context. If you were able to doubt their belonging to another world, it is a sign that you are not completely stranger to the extraterrestrial phenomena as most people would have seen only two eccentrics, nothing else. Your sensibility to Them should be something to explore.

Ummo

Thank you again for your explanation but I am curious however to know. What do you mean when you say that my sensibility towards Them should be something to explore?

Colin

Hello Ummo

What I wanted to say by something to explore, it is that if your adventure is real, you may consider making contact with them. First, you have doubted that the two eccentric persons could be extraterrestrials so you have an inclination to perceive them. Second, they have perceived your thoughts about them so they are also receptive to you. This makes two components which suggest that a communication can be established. From this observation and the fact that you come on this forum dedicated principally to extras, you have the basic ingredients to go further if you wish to do so. By digging a little inside you, you should find leads that will enlighten you on the reason of this interest and the next steps to consider.

There is no coincidence. There are only mechanisms of the universe that we have not yet discovered.

Question from Vi-Vi

A very interesting book with a rich and complex material content in a simplified format and accessible to all!

Do you have information concerning the events that some predict on the subject of our planet for the coming years; meaning natural disasters, change of 'density' ascension and all subjects covered in the new age literature?

Did you read the book 'Belzebug's Tales to his Grandson' from Gurdjieff? This book states, in an allegoric and cryptic way, certain details explained in your book but it is also a tool to connect with your superior self; that is where comes my questioning relative to the boundary which could exist between your story and any form of truth in relation with our creators.

And at last, does your material come only from the source or has it been cross-checked with other materials (in order to verify the validity of your information)?

This work goes nothing less against the Darwin theory which is no small thing and nevertheless, it seems much closer to the 'truth'.

I've enjoyed reading your book as it has allowed me to reconnect to a sense of universal logic which is deeply rooted in each of us.

Oh yes, I have a last question. If it would be possible to meet Naja in his human form, according to you, what would he look like?

Hello Vi-vi

Thank you for your personal message and testimony. I will try to give my feedback next week-end.

Sorry for not having answered your questions sooner. On another site, I was bombarded with questions during two weeks regarding my book and could not supply answers to all. Furthermore, I write mainly on week-ends because of my other passions, teaching, painting, music, etc. So, thank you for your patience and your bringing me back to order. I am not too familiar with forums. I have had the internet for only approximately 5 years. There are people who are riveted on their computer day and night and who ask questions. If you do not answer them within 15 minutes, they start to accuse you of eluding or hiding things. If the delay is even longer, they move to insults. I believe I am free of my actions and have a life outside the internet.

At first, I thank you for your testimony on my book which shows that you have captured its relevance. As for future events that many prophesy, I fell into that trap when I was 20 years old (40 years ago already) and I was saying a lot of things back then. I am more discreet now. First, to perceive the future of a person is problematic as outside a certain number of key events in someone's life, the rest is in perpetual transformation. It is easy to predict the future of a person who is subject to influences and returns of all his past emanations but it is more difficult when the person controls his life and makes new choices every day. The more we control our destiny, the more we define it at each present moment. The same goes for the future of the planet and its inhabitants. The population is shared between the predictable taxpayers and the unpredictable creators. So, how predict the future of a population as varied. Who could decide of our future between the two? It is not all play.

Even the earth, as consciousness, can also decide to get rid of a few millions of fleas sucking its blood. We are dependent on our planetary environment and limited in our evolution by its location in space. Our planet is itself really limited in its ascension by its exact position in space; meaning by the vibratory content of its immediate environment. Is the earth really rising itself to a vibratory level or are superior beings bombarding us at this moment with evolutionary rays? I would lean more for the second hypothesis. I no longer risk today playing the prophet. I am content to live in the eternal present and I like to think that I will be able to adapt to whatever the future holds for me.

As for the book from Gurdjieff, I have not read it even if I do know the title. My readings are not all so advanced. It would be too long to list them even if there are not so many. You must understand that inspired writing, as for my book, is realized without any conscious intellectual reflection. The original draft of 100 pages of this first book was written in only three days. My few readings in the paranormal field in my youth have allowed me simply to have access to different or new concepts and to develop a very open mind. Thus, by creating in me a fertile soil, this has allowed the entity Naja, who expresses himself through me, to draw a vocabulary and relevant ideas to pass on or complete. It is like answering you here; this mostly requires me to make an effort to silence my intellect and write under his dictate: Because, on a daily basis, I am a simple human, no more.

Nothing in my book has been confronted with other sources but relies on what I have unconsciously stored as baggage throughout the years. I have always had the ease to complement other people's ideas, make the links which connect them and develop globalizing concepts. An inner voice speaks to me always, validates my reflections and makes me see where is the truth of the moment; all this without too much effort. As an artist, I am used to let myself be guided by my intuition. My creative side allows me to be open to all forms of inspiration without judgment a priori. I should also point out that, by having renewed contact with many of my past lives, this gives me access quite easily to all their baggage of experiences. When I need certain abilities, I plug into a life that has developed them.

As for the appearance of Naja, I never asked myself the question because he does not have a physical body any more at this moment and is at the fifth level of vibratory evolution of our world. His original appearance when he lived on his planet was never addressed. In the book, he mentions that if one of his own kind would stand up in front of you, he would seem to be made of liquid light in a perpetual metamorphosis. On the other hand, the name Naja was given by humans to a family of snakes in remembrance of beings half-man/half-snake as part of their legends. It could be that he might have had a reptilian morphology in his long life but given the bad press that people make of that race (rightly or wrongly), I don't go too deep in that direction.

If I have stopped responding to comments on the other exchange site and even to go there, it is because it was turning to a trial on the origin of the name Naja. In a past life, having been accused of witchcraft by the inquisition for having treated people with energies, then tortured and burned, I do not laugh at allusions of a snake as a representative of Satan. If people are having fun by uttering malicious innuendoes on a casual tone, me, I am weighing my words. I am sensitive to inquisitors who sometimes hide themselves under insignificant appearances. I will not be accused of making a deal with the devil twice. Moreover, as far as I know, all women named Lucy are not the daughters of Lucifer. I take pleasure in answering questions, in my time limits, but I will not justify myself in front of a jury. In the global universe, the science of names and their vibratory effects is much older than the restricted knowledge of terrestrials. I rely more on emanations of beings than their appearances or their descriptive names. This is an asset when one wants to interact with extras of all origins.

I hope that my answers satisfy you for now otherwise I am at your disposal but...at my own pace.

Hello Ezech

I will try to say more on the origin of the human race but I suggest you read my manuscript that says a lot on the subject. First, we must accept the concept that we are not born of the fruit of a long evolution but of a transplant on the earth done by a race of extraterrestrials whose mandate is to spread life in all its forms in the universe. What we believe to be the natural evolution is in fact a return to our origins. Thus we are going backwards of the primary evolution. The conscious life is born, at first, where the original creative energy is the most dense near the fixed center of the universe and second, near the fixed center of the galaxies. It has deployed hereafter more and more further in the worlds more and more obscure. We live in periphery of our own galaxy and are one of the last bastions where can live an intelligent race despite the poor atmosphere in primary substance. A certain primitive life can be born on a planet by the influx of components coming from space. But when the conditions are conducive to a more elaborate life, it is always transplanted by superior beings whose mission and passion it is. We are somewhat the extreme materialization of a conscience which wants to explore the dense matter in all its forms to, afterwards, want go back towards the source with its achievements while becoming once again more and more subtle.

The extras who thereby plant life on planets are also observers, guardians of their creation. They ensure that the behaviors of their progeny can be in constant evolution; by correcting stagnations, by circumscribing the degenerations, etc. If a race risks a self-destruction (as us), they can decide to save pertinent specimens as precious heritage so they will look for those who have kept as pure as possible the finer qualities of the creation. They will collect maybe, if necessary, essential components. Many individuals can be also studied in their natural environment or in a chosen place. All this is said for you to understand that the range of their behaviors is similar to the terrestrial one towards many animal races. In fact, it is from Them, our Creators, that we have inherited, among others, this passion for the study in depth of our living area including all flora and existing fauna. For certain terrestrials, the safekeeping of all that patrimony is as important as for the extras.

From this postulate, if you accept it and if your research is sincere, you might be able maybe to have answers from their part to understand what seems to be appropriate to you.

Comment from Arcane.

No but Colin is sincere with respect to his abilities to understand what others communicate.

Hello Arcane

Thank you for your remark. It is true that I try to be the most sincere as possible in my interventions while being conscious that I am only an intermediary with everything that it entails. I am not always at the top of my abilities, nor without any risk of tinging, limiting or even blocking the transmission unconsciously. I am a human being who lives in a certain place, at a definite era and in a delimited context. These three elements are enough to put in perspective all revelation. What matters is what I say gets the attention of some of you in their actual journey and brings at best positive awareness.

Hello to all.

I will give you here my opinion on what I have learned from Those who talk to me. The theory of Gods coming from heaven who have brought us on earth a long time ago is true. In the case of our species, we can count approximately 35 thousand years. The problem is that this race of 'Gods' was not in a sector of the universe which was under its jurisdiction and we were a too evolved prototype for that environment poor in potential. But this being done, it was decided that, after a certain time, we would be left to ourselves by superior decree. Nevertheless, many efforts were carried out throughout time, more or less indirectly, in helping us find our true path; meaning realizing our original potential.

It is also true that as our founding people were not in their authorized area, another race more conquering (in the bad sense of the word) had claimed that system. There were battles on several occasions between different factions but superior entities had ruled in favour of the founding race. That victory did not give, just the same, the right to our Creators to manifest themselves directly at all times.

But now that since the 1950s, a new change happened on this earth which resulted in the involvement here of many extraterrestrial races. All amounts to the atomic energy that man has discovered and has started to use. Most of you have heard about it but the information is buried in an overflow of suppositions that goes in all directions. Here is the basis of what I know. The manipulation and use of atomic energy (nuclear and others) is highly regulated by superior orders in this part of the universe, even forbidden. What is contained in certain minerals is energy so concentrated that released too rapidly, it causes a deflagration which can create a hole in the fabric of our universe. To take a simplistic example, it's like the anti-matter coming from an anti-world which, by concentrating too much, freezes, becomes matter in our world but released too fast regains its primary condition and destroys its contrary in our world.

These holes are very dangerous because they are difficult to fill, even with an extraterrestrial technology. All matter at all vibratory levels is destroyed. If you don't understand, it entails that all form of destroyed life by a nuclear explosion is annihilated totally: Even clearer, no possible survival on any vibratory plan, a definite death. Some of these holes, if they are not caught in time, can cause even more important tears which can disrupt vast territories. Then, you understand why the extras do not seek to be friends and laugh with us at this moment. Many worlds are concerned as they are in danger at different levels. Faced with this threat, different peoples have united. For the moment, the whole atomic arsenal is under their surveillance and their control. Without this threat that weighs on a very vast territory around the earth, They could have left us in peace in our evolutionary journey and observe us from afar incognito. They consider our genetic potential so unique and efficient that They are ready to do anything to save it. From this comes everything you know about their samples taken on the abductees.

In terms of nuclear power, I do not want to upset anybody but I must say what I know. You can do whatever you want with it. If for 60 years, the extraterrestrials had not intervened regularly to repair our 'blunders', there would be no more forms of life on earth at the present time. Search on this theme and you will find information.

I swear to you that I do not like to say these things but I can't help myself. When I write and post on this site, I don't think for a second about what I'm saying (funny sentence). I'm transmitting, that's all. It is up to you to probe within your inner self to know if the information gets your attention. From my part, it has been a long time since I have no more verified systematically the sources as I have over fifty years of experience and reflections on my reason for being,

I also hope that my interventions are appreciated and are not seen as pure delirium. They come simply from the desire to proclaim and enlighten if possible. I say no more as I am recognized as a motor-mouth (quality/fault of a teacher) and I do not want to confuse anybody, nor appear overly affirmative (too late!).

Hello everybody

This site contains many enriching information thanks to its initiator and in particular to the testimony of Harmonium 1 that I consider truthful to have myself received similar information as a whole. We should not discard the fact that we are human beings with some limitations and unique personalities. The gurus (in the bad sense of the term) do not admit that their personalities can tinge to different levels the information they receive. Today, even the most conservative scientists are starting to admit that all experience done in a context cannot be entirely objective as the experimenter is part of the experiment.

This reminds me of a hypnotherapist and American author (whose name I don't remember but I have read one of his books a few years ago) who had practiced several hypnotic regressions on hundreds of abductees. His broad conclusions boiled down to the principal fact that the ETs were practicing those abductions in order to create a hybrid race. But the problem is that he lingered a lot describing sexual touching at the vaginal level, anal, masturbation of men, forced mating (I quickly understood his field of interest). Sex is always seller. What made me unplug completely of his pseudo-searches, it is during the precise testimony of a female abductee. That woman was telling simply that her experience with extras, in her case, had been positive, even enriching for her evolution. But she was answered by the author 'But Madam, it is not possible! They are evil beings who raped you'. This behaviour describes very well the lack of objectivity of some researchers who seek to bring their experiences into the narrow mold of preconceived ideas.

This testimony of Harmonium 1 is what led me to start to testify on this site. Despite a few remarks of some who have easy doubt, the whole is respectful of the testimonies. In the charter, it is forbidden to judge or question a priori a testimony. But it should be also forbidden to suggest to a witness, who does not mention intense fears, that his experience is due to beings with unhealthy intentions and that tips can be suggested to prevent them. That is what I have read in some comments under the guise of wanting to help. There are too many ufology organizations which are under the leadership of persons which have at the starting point a negative bias on the extraterrestrials and which influence any search for truth. However, this site is in general objective and respectful of this.

Hello everyone.

It is difficult for me to comment on the cases of traumatic abduction, even violent physically. In my case, I have always felt respected and even protected as if 'They' looked out for me. It is also true that I felt a few times a suspicious presence who could have been 'dangerous' without that protection.

Here is an extract of a testimony from Simplicity that contains elements which caught my attention and which go in that direction.

Why were they in the area?

For an exploratory mission as they are, above all, explorers. And they have specified not wanting to do any harm to humans; that the approach of animals was easier...humans being afraid of all!

Had they done abductions before?

Yes, but they didn't really make them anymore... That it was the only way to do...because humans are afraid of contacts. Since our magnetic fields are different from theirs...They have explained that during past abductions, They lost their identities facing panicked people (Ex: if the abducted person was afraid to be hurt, They did what the person thought). From there arise bad experiences for Them...and for the abductees.

This reflection is very interesting. The majority of earthlings are naturally pacific and helpful but, in front of the behaviour of a distraught individual in crisis and even aggressive out of control, who can tell what our spontaneous reactions would be.

Hello Doris.

Thank you for your comment. I would like to specify that to emphasize on karma which is addressed in a paragraph from a text of 12 pages does not do justice to the entire content. Nevertheless, you must know that karma is not a law governed by any superior entity or any other judge who distributes penalties or rewards in relation to our actions. But it is well a fundamental principle of the universe which is quite impersonal, immutable and constant. It consists of everything we emit with a certain force; either by a gesture, a word, a thought or an emotion, will spread around in the form of vibration but at the end of its momentum will return inexorably towards the one who has emitted it. There, that's all! On that basis, the return shock will be a carrier of knowledge on our real identity. Therefore, it is not advisable to stay frozen in a victim role or to live a sterile guilt and, even less, to completely put the blame on exterior circumstances. But if our feeling of guilt or hate brings us to become aware of our responsibility as creator of our own universe, this will bring really durable changes.

Earthlings are lucky and at the same time unlucky to have such a wide range of emotions but we must not believe that the Greys, who have especially a developed mind, do not have a palette of mental nuances as rich as the one of emotions. The expressions of love do not manifest only in the range of emotions but well in all frequency scales including the mental one. Those who want to open up to other extraterrestrial realities must put necessarily in parentheses their points of view, their terrestrial landmarks related to an era, a place and a situation. They must understand that there are other behaviour references in the universe which can confuse at first sight but which are also valuable. To define the extraterrestrial races as either positive or negative is issued of our media which simplifies everything into opposite poles without intermediate nuances. If I ask you the question: Are the terrestrials a good or a bad race? You would not know what to answer unless you are extremists in one way or another. You see the absurdity of this question: Openness and understanding towards extraterrestrials is what is asked of terrestrials and this is the motivation that inspired me for this text.

Addition sept. 2019

All this information is the transcription of reflections from Naja and me that I have transmitted on a site/forum at the beginning of my public manifestation in 2010 and at the same time is the conclusion of 10 years of public interventions. I have decided to withdraw for a while in order to regain my inner balance and concentrate on my own personal journey.

I am inhabited by an extraterrestrial entity who has had a long life course and who no longer feels the duty to manifest in public. He is no more obliged, in this period of his passage on the earth, to prolong his contacts with humans. In a distant past, he had for a long time the function of being a mediator to resolve conflicts, the prolonged discords between individuals, factions or peoples about beliefs, lifestyles or simple divergent opinions. He was going from planet to planet where help was needed and was called for his expertise. He practised this profession because he was inhabited at the origin with a particular vibration who gave him the faculty of bringing out in the other all the possible issues and mainly the secret intentions behind appearances. His strong energy in him made him come out, without making necessarily a voluntary action from his part, what was hidden by the protagonists; mainly what was important for the understanding of the real reasons for conflicts. He could, that way, find the solutions most adequate in the circumstances.

So, because of his presence in me, I have frequently provoked to others extreme behaviours in all possible directions. Only by my presence, if individuals had also a dark unmentionable part in them, they felt the need to express it. I believe, nevertheless, that this often came out without the person having any apparent control over his actions. So, I have known and been through all my life, and without wanting it, extreme reactions from beings who felt obliged to exteriorize feelings, very strong perturbing emotions.

In numerous situations where I have engaged with human beings, there were often persons to come and upset, counteract my attempts of collaboration. These behaviours, often disproportionate in relation to the situation, have worn me out in the long run and made me suspicious. This forces me, at the age of 67 years, to withdraw from the public scene in order to stop being subjected again to attacks of all kinds.

Solitude is my healthy lot so I can continue to evolve without fear of further major disturbances.

Nearly two hundred years ago, a journalist while visiting an artist-painter, who was retired and living in the country, asked him why this lonely life and if it did not hide a mistrust, even a hatred of the human race. The artist answered no, that he loved humans but he did not want to associate with them so as not to hate them. This artist-painter, that was me but in another life. This sentence, despite its humorous side, seems hard, even a value judgment but it is all I can say about my current situation. Even if I meet many wonderful beings, the wickedness of some affects a lot and forces me to distance myself globally. At this moment, I build and rebuild myself day by day and there ends my visions.

Those were my visions
