

THE REPTILIANS

MY FRIENDS

THE REPTILIANS

MY FRIENDS

I retranscribe here the information received on reptilian people since, under hypnosis, I told that I was in connection with them since the age of 4; the age where they started to abduct me. In the course of time, I learned to know them up to the point of being able to call them my friends even if that word has not the same connotation in their universe than ours. Often, the hypnosis sessions are the driving force of releasings which continue later on well after the sessions and make go back to the consciousness other buried memories.

At first, I will testify on my segments of souvenirs upon their contact. After, I will let Naja talk, the entity who belongs to the very evolved reptilian people and who was inserted in me around the age of 25 years; then, will talk my reptilian friend, who is my guardian and protector since my early childhood. They will testify alternately of their pride of belonging to that species.

Under hypnosis, I told that, around 14 years old, my extraterrestrial abductors had installed an implant inside of me going through my nose. Because of the length of the instrument, I doubt that it was installed near my brain. The reason given was apparently to locate me at all times. But, after reflection, I told myself that it would have been simpler to insert it in my hand or my foot as in many abductee cases, a place less dangerous for my health. That has led me to believe that there were other functions like maybe keep a permanent cerebral contact between us. It is admitted in general, thanks to numerous testimonies, that the majority of extraterrestrials communicate by thought which avoids the learning of thousands of languages, especially if they do not have the oral or labial morphology convenient to that. The brain of the receptive contactee translates by itself in his language the mental message. Then, I believe that my implant-tracer serves also as a relay to allow me to emit and receive at all times. This would be a plausible explanation to my facility of asking questions mentally and receiving detailed answers even outside of their immediate presence. The extraterrestrial entity, who is in me, seems precious enough for them since they want to keep a permanent contact. I doubt also that this implant can influence and lead me in certain circumstances but let's not go too far in speculations.

Before my five sessions with the psychoanalyst and hypnotherapist Pierre Caron, I was not too interested in what some people called 'The Reptilians'. I only had information on them by what was said, mainly in a bad way, in certain books, certain conferences and mostly internet. So, here is the first passage, taken from my sessions under hypnosis, where I talk about them.

Link to download 'Under hypnosis, my story':
http://www.music-close-to-silence.net/my\_story.pdf

---

But...but yes! It is it...it's (sigh) Naja...(uneasiness). It's because...how can I say...(giggle) does it belong to...? They do not want to tell me but I suspect that it might be the reptilians. They know that they have bad press at this moment and that it is why they do not want me to know where they come from and who they are. No! They are not interested...they are not interested because...we live in a world full of prejudice which judges them before knowing them. People do not even know them but they already make up their minds.

But...you must know that reptilians, it is not a race, it...it is, like here, the animal race. How many animal races are there on earth? Therefore, there are as many reptilian races as there are human and animal races. It is a big family which has a population of hundreds of species and it is not because one of these species is a warrior one that the whole range of reptilian races are all conquering races, barbarian or worse (joking) drink blood, eat human beings and mice (laugh). I was thinking of a television program with a woman eating a mouse in 'V' (televised series where reptilians pretend to be humanoids from space coming peacefully on earth but hiding cruel beings). But reality, it is not that. In the universe, what is from reptilian origin, it is like what is of humanoid, animal or even vegetal and mineral origin. It is a huge category which contains hundreds and hundreds of families, subspecies which go from one extreme to the other. Everything is there. Naja is part of reptilians that colonized planets; have brought civilisation and intelligence everywhere! How many reptilians have come on earth and have helped develop earthlings; have brought them great knowledge! We do not judge a whole species from the behaviour of certain of their congeners as we do not judge humans from the behaviour of certain of their individuals.

Bah! This is what they are saying to me. But me, I know nothing of this. Therefore...I listen and do not argue too much. (chuckle). What can I answer? I did not even know they existed before...

---

It is difficult for me to understand how humans can arrive to fuel that much distrust, even hate, towards reptilians based on rumors which have nothing concrete to propose. Not one testimony of the slightest violence or menace except for the fear on their physical view. There is not one single people in the universe, either from reptilian origin, humanoid or other, which can build a civilization worthy of that name based on untruth, oppression, violence, mental or physical cruelty. That can last a certain time if it is maintained by a few individuals with an iron hand but this negative condition ends up by autodestructing itself well before building anything permanent. The majority of individuals of a species aspire to a serene and gratifying life and will always be the counterweight to the tyranny. But, yes, there are individuals moved by bad intentions and who make reprehensible actions if we compare them to other levels of evolution. Each evolves at its own rythm. As for yourselves on earth, a certain respect of individuals is now established in the most evolved parts of your planet but what are the conditions of the other parts? Less than 300 years ago, pleasure was taken in torturing individuals on public places in front of a crowd and this, in parts of your planet said the most evolved of your time. I hope that this was not the reflection of the total mentality of a whole species. It is impossible for a whole race or species to build a civilization and survive with behaviors described by certain earthlings towards reptilians. The fear of the unknown does not justify an unreasonable fear or hate without serious foundation. But it is in the nature of many peoples to approach a stranger as a potential menace. The more primitive reptilians do not escape it either.

My first contact with them, described under hypnosis, was by the intermediary of a small being of the same height as me when I was 4 years old and strangely, there are two descriptions which do not match. Here they are:

---

I am not 4 years old. Yeah! It's because the...(laugh) the hand is slimy. (laugh) He is holding my hand and his hand is like glue; it is like jello; it is like frogs; it sticks, is slimy and is cold. It is slimy in my hand and he insists on holding my hand. I do what he wants me to do but...I do not find this pleasant to hold his hand.

He is taller than me. Bah...not much...not much, I am 4 years old. I think that he is about the same age as me. But I think this because ...yes, me, in my head, he is of the same height then, he is of the same age. Oh yes! He looks like all the others. He is like images of the Greys but he does not have their face...he has a human face. He has a small face with a big head. Me, I find that he has a head too big in relation with the face. But he has a face...about like mine. The eyes are a little weird. The pupil is crushed. It is like they have eyes all white with just a little dark line at the center. It is not round like us, it is pointed. It is like a little colored slit right at the center. That's all. It looks strange to see that they have a face like us with ears almost like us but it's like they have an inflated head. I find the head too big for the face. They are funny!

---

When I read these two contradictory retranscriptions, it appeared clear to me that the false appearance of my reptilian friend in my youth was not due to a physical metamorphosis from his part but from a mental illusion induced in my brain. I hold as proof that I describe the contact of his hand, which was very real, as the sensation of touching the cold and sticky skin of a 'frog' but in counterpart, I describe an appearance much closer to a human. It was not a real deceit from his part but a way to do in sort that I would not be afraid of his appearance. This conclusion does not exclude the possibility of the physical metamorphosis in certain more advanced reptilian species.

My reptilian friend appeared to me under his 'real' appearance after the age of 12 and this was quite troubling. Here is what I said about it under hypnosis:

---

Bah...I don't know how old I am but there is a devil's face in a window. I say that it is the devil but I think that it's...it's the little men again. I saw a face which scared me in a window and it was at night. Ho! he was not pretty, pretty. (worried). He looked like the devil that we see in school books. I saw him only a few seconds and he disappeared. I said "it's not them that come and get me normally. I don't know this one...Woh! He sure is not pretty...he is not pretty at all. No no no no with his head. Oh boy, he is not pretty. In books, they have a black face with horns...in school books. Woh! if...if it's like it is written in books, no! I don't know if he is one of those that come to get me but no, no I forget. I did not see anything...I absolutely saw nothing."

I was not mistaken...no it does not make sense what I will tell you but I will say it just the same (little chuckle). He is coming to get me and it looks like it is the small one...the small one who used to come and get me when I was young. It seems like it's the same one but he has become old...and in aging, he has gotten horns. (small giggle). I...I don't recognize him at all. When he arrived beside me, he sent me something and there I remembered. But I said "it's you? I mean; you do not look at all like you used to look ...when you were of the same age as me." Starting from there...I was less afraid of him. I said "ok, all right, if it's you...I believe it." He did not say it really but I felt that it was him so I did not doubt it..."Then, okay, if it's you...I feel it...but, my God, you are...phew!...if...if I listen to the priest...hum you are not on the good side (laugh). Bah he said "no, that's no big deal, it's not the first time that I scare someone." But...I am surprised...I told him "you don't look the same at all! Why? " It's like he was saying "well I...I..." Well, okay, I will say it even if sometimes, there is something that wants me to keep me from telling. He very well takes the appearance he wants so I will not be scared by him. So, when I was little, he took the appearance so I wouldn't be afraid of him. Now that I am used to him, I am able to see him nearest to what he really is. Bah, there, I told him "I hope that what you look like at this moment it's...I don't know but...is it the closest of what you really are? Or if it's even worse, please (laugh) spare me a little." It is very weird. He shows me an image but now that I know that it might not be his real image...that maybe the image he shows me at this moment is also...Then, I say to myself "that's easy!...from memory, he never hurt me; I have always trusted him so I will continue. I think he is all right."

Well...I say the devil because he has horns. Bah horns! They are not pointed...it's like he has two bumps on the forehead which go to the back and are raised...That's it! He is kind of dark brown. He is not black. The devil is black. But him, he is sort of dark brown with eyes...I always notice that he has yellow eyes, yellow-orange.

---

It is really a shock to find yourself in front of one of those beings; so impressing at first by their size and look. For a long time in school and in life in general, we were not taught, or little, to be open to differences, to be curious to discover other ideologies, other cultures, to see a stranger as a sort of wealth and not as a menace to our own culture. It has not been so long ago that a minority of humans on earth found pleasure in sharing with other human strangers their mutual ways to see life, to manifest its personality. No matter what risks it contains, if we are sincere and true, without animosity, we will only reap benefits. Only the ill-intentionned being will reap a karmic debt.

My long-term and larger contacts with reptilians have shown me a diversity of appearances as in this other extract:

---

They are all the same as my friend...my friend who comes to get me. Yes yes! Don't be embarrassed. They are a mix of...it seems like half frog and half lizard. It's a form of lizard. They are intelligent, they smile and they are friendly. Me, I am used to being around them so they do not surprise me anymore. I see them. They are there. When I visited their city, I saw many of different heights, different colors, different ages, so well. Sometimes, it's them that looked at me a little because they do not see earthlings every day. Bah! directly in their world. Those who come on earth, they are used to humans but those who live in the big hanging city, they are not around them often. Let's say they see some on their screens but in person...So, it's certain that when I go...I was there...I could say maybe...a number at random... between ten and twenty times in their city...many were intrigued. Me, I was happy because it is like I had a privilege. It's not everybody...that's what they say, who has the right to go in their city. Okay, thank you, it's kind of you.

---

The first time I was in presence of many of them, all at once, under their real appearances, I was not very brave in front of their impressive stature. They were in fact about 1/3 taller than me, at least those that I was to be meeting regularly (me that is already 6 feet tall). Secondly, by their look, by their very colored eyes lightly elongated towards the back with a vertical iris which fix you insistently and at the same time, very suspiciously. They did not like the unknown whom I was representing. They were a bit disconcerted in front of me with a little point of aggressiveness as two males who gauge and test themselves. But since I am confident in nature, that I smile easily and emit an energy which in general calms them, it was taking out that first defense stage rapidly. At all times, they love to have control of a situation so they very rarely abandon themselves to a complete opening up. Earthlings have a reputation, in their perceptions, to have unpredictable extreme mood swings and mostly, lose control easily which to them is a great weakness sign. From an outside point of view, our past as cruel barbarians with unceasing territorial wars still going on today sticks with us.

My reptilian friend, which accompanies me from my young age and serves as a bodyguard, had explained a few imperative basic notions on how to behave in their presence. The reptilians have a stiff code of conduct which could look rigid for most humans but it secures them that all is orchestrated and quantified in their daily relations. That allows, according to them, to control their quick warlike natures of defensive or attack inherited from their ancestors. I cannot say that they are a joy to be with as a human is used to a certain liberty of expression, of lightness of being, at least those who live in parts of the world where personal expression is encouraged. But surely, many humans who are serious and reserved would be at ease with them. This is not my case; me who loves to laugh, joke with a certain familiarity. Reptilians who have been closer to humans, as my friend, have become more flexible, more versatile in their behaviours then more pleasant for me to meet. But this is done in general in a more private framework. They always are careful in the presence of their congeners.

To describe the general characteristics of their personality; they are proud, arrogant and even a little vain. To earn their friendship, you must be respectful at all times. They abhor familiarities and inappropriate gestures. You must keep a certain distance of convenience and observe a certain protocol which they consider as being obvious. Always serious and grave, they do not understand our humor but appreciate the witty remarks which call on intelligence. From a worrying nature that they would never think of showing, to tame them, you must regularly compliment them on their appearance, their speech and actions. Even if we do not agree with an opinion, a gesture from their part, you must have a lot of tact to tell them while softening it up with a compliment. As an example: I do not agree with what you are saying even if you are often wise in your words. A positive point of this way of being is that they compliment and value themselves constantly between them.

They take great pride in their history, their long inheritance and often mention anecdotes of the past to demonstrate their value. They admire strong beings, courageous, determined who know what they want and impose themselves while respecting the other. But, at the same time, they know how to take care of the weakest not by pity or compassion but by instinct of protection. They are very protective towards their family and their congeners even if their sense of belonging is more cerebral than emotional. Besides, they have a scale of emotions very limited compared to us. It is a natural duty to defend in all circumstances their loved ones even at the price of their own life. For them, it is important to stay inflexible in front of ordeals and they do not like to confide on their errors, their weaknesses. It is seen as shameful to be plaintive. The castes are quite important and it is a pride that the offspring continues the family lineage even if a dispensation would not be badly seen. The castes have given different morphologies with milleniums and we thus recognize them by their appearance.

They appreciate beauty and harmony in all things but as long as they understand the significance, the primordial reason. Curious by nature, they love to explore, discover, learn and mostly list the content of the vast universe including principles and fundamental laws that govern it. To appreciate beauty, they have to understand it. What moves them is, above all, the geometric, arithmetic and logical order. The order of things is a goal in itself to attain. It is important that everything be in its place and justified. This excites them at the highest level to be in control of their environment by the understanding of mechanisms that are underlying. If I had to compare them to humans, I could define them as male chauvinist societies, thus with a dominance of male characteristics. To the most primitive, this implicates also all the bad sides of the male kind while to the most evolved ones, only positive sides. But my opinion is a bit reducing as I have met only a few reptilian races. If I look at Naja who belongs to a reptilian species which has evolved on millions of years, the comparison does not hold. He is part of these races which have attained a very high level of perfection compared to our actual status.

Here it is! That is what I have principally retained of their way of being throughout our brief contacts and the few exchanges I had with them along all those years. I prefer to let Naja speak as he knows so much more than me on their history.

NAJA

To understand the origin of reptilians, you must know, at first, how the universe works. The knowledge, the evolution and all creations come from above or more precisely, the center of the universe where the primary energy is more abundant. There is in the center of the universe an energy so compact that it forms a gigantic black hole which is the extreme concentration of that energy. On a small scale, we find a black hole at the center of each galaxy which serves as a pivot for a whole system of worlds gravitating around. Also, what we call the dark matter, is that first energy which gave birth to all things including uncountable forms of lives, evolutionary consciousness. In periphery of those fixed centers, the energy is so dense that it creates worlds which are born with already a high level of perfection. But, the more we move further away, the more that ambient energy rarefies and creates worlds more and more primitive because fed less and less by the primary source. The further worlds must thus often make extreme efforts to progress even so little.

As this energy spreads out from the center, it is from the center that starts all creation.

Each new level of creation contributes to create the following level always further away to encompass the 'inferior' worlds located mostly in the periphery of galaxies. One of the creations which was experienced for extreme conditions of your galaxy millions of years ago, is the reptilian species; species which is enduring, resistant, able to survive in parts of the universe that are repulsive at first glance. So, reptilians were implanted by superior beings in different countries at the borders of the rarefied energy, including your solar system to evaluate the possibilities to engender, with this species, worlds capable to create civilizations.

Can you imagine that the reptilian race is an intelligent species which was created millions of years ago before the humanoid race and which has evolved in thousands of variations among which some have attained a high level of perfection. The fears of the unknown on hostile planets have pushed our ancestors to try to understand the principles, the laws which govern the functioning of all things, to list all forms of life either animal, vegetal or mineral. This census has given to many peoples, with time, a knowledge most complete on the origin of life and its complexity throughout multiple environments.

I am proud of belonging to a race which has, as characteristic, the thirst to learn, to discover new forms of life, to list the diversity of the universe and to spread, if possible, its acquired knowledge. At the next step, this has given the idea to the wiser among us to contribute also to develop creations issued from our knowledge and to spread them throughout primitive worlds in evolution. In summary, my people of origin led a vast armada with the mission to discover new worlds, observe them and identify their life. Another faction had, as mandate, to influence on these worlds showers of growth; to stimulate the awakening of the positive conscience by favoring the species having that potential. A third team had, as work, to sow life on sterile worlds. The last one, finally, could move planets, reorganize worlds so all was favourable to life. You can read again the functions of these four groups backwards and understand the principal role of our people. We loved seeing life being born in all its purity, its innocence, its astonishment at the vast universe. We did not feel emotions as yours but rather loved vibrations upon contact of life in germination.

I, myself, have discovered, over milleniums, millions of forms of life more strange and complex than the last. Ever since my young age, I had the faculty of transforming myself in one of these creatures thanks to a characteristic developed on my planet; it was the possibility of reorganizing my cells in a new layout by the very precise control of each cell in my body. Some of my ancestors had discovered that by fractionating their conscience in as many parts as there were cells or particles in all their bodies, that could imply the regain of control of their bodies in its least fraction; after, it was to give to each of its parts the liberty of an individual conscience, the liberty of choosing the whole with full knowledge of the facts. That choice disintegrated or unified forever their vibratory being. If the whole was maintained, the individual survival of each of their particles guaranteed the continuation indefinitely of their vehicles; with the possibility of reconstituting at will certain forms of life. That faculty allowed them to explore from the interior the particularities of each visited world. These characteristics, hard-earned by my predecessors, were mine at birth. That allowed me to take easily the appearance of almost all forms of life and to be able that way to meet them to learn, to understand their way of life. I then could, provided with their characteristics, seize their way of thinking, on what foundation was based their universe, their beliefs and their perception of the rest of the universe. Some concepts were so unique that I could not seize on what logical base they developed. How can we not have great respect for all forms of life no matter what they are. Each life has its reason to be even if its reason is not always recognizable for now.

I also understood that the passage to that great respect goes through by the struggle for the survival, the defense of its vital space and the same eagerness of a territory to live with a certain ease. Also, it went through unfortunately by hate, vengeance, cruelty and as many variations of indifference in front of reactions that our actions provoke to the other. In many parts of the universe, you have to go through inevitably by these steps so that one day, you grasp that all life has the capacity of feeling sorrow, fear, pain, fright. When we understand this profoundly in ourself, it becomes impossible to inflict to others the least oppression, the least unjustified obstacle. You are a great race but which has still a lot of things to learn and no matter what afflictions you have, they are there surely to make you progress towards respect and sharing without condition.

What has to be known is that peoples that succeed to extricate themselves from the attraction of their planet and begin to explore other worlds end up by creating bonds with other peoples which have close environments and a similar evolution. They form then an alliance which officializes in federations with common ideals. That part of the galaxy is under the supervision of a great federation which is principally dominated by reptilian species which are endowed with a code of conduct that governs hundreds of concerned planets. Those that are not reptilian must obey to this federation. This federation is quite harsh, even dictatorial and governs with firmness. It can unfortunately be sometimes cruel but it is at that level of evolution that has arrived the whole of these beings. The good and evil is relative to an agreement between beings that have the same values and convictions. I repeat, the respect of any individual or all forms of life is a long apprenticeship in that part of the universe where the original energy is rare so not favoring a rapid evolution.

There is really no good or evil. All is a question of an agreement between individuals belonging to a group that, in order to function with a certain harmony, balance, decide what is good and what is evil. What is good contributes to strengthen the group and what is evil is what brings perturbations in the group. All that to say that the good and the evil is relative to a group of individuals, in one precise period, precise place and precise situation. Apart from that, evil does not exist in itself. It exists nevertheless what we can call the conscious evil, meaning taking actions that seem lesser, regressive compared to the conscience level of the one taking them. Our consciousness always reveals if our actions are greater or smaller than our evolution level. Each to their own to listen to it or not. But even when a being acts over his level of consciousness, he progresses in the darkest retrenchments not yet completely revealed. You have a tendency today, because of your media, to simplify the world by dividing it in good guys or bad guys. That is not real because beings, no matter what they are, are more complex than just positive or negative. But, for that, you have to linger to understand the other.

Therefore, it is the reptilians who are the first intelligent tenants, able to create sophisticated societies and evolutive civilizations in that part of our galaxy. You can understand that even if they are a more primitive creation, less sophisticated than the humanoid species, more ancient with millions of years of evolution, they have attained levels of perfection highly superior to what you know of living beings on earth. The diversity is the fruit of the adaptation at different circles often difficult and overtaking. Many reptilian species can boast to be able to transform and explore that way as they please unknown universes. Others can move planets, create new worlds, influence the running of suns and even live in their centers. Others still live in parallel worlds, at very evolved levels of frequencies, endowed with immortality, feeding with prana only and being able to move in space without a vessel. Reptilians of long origin are considered as accomplished gods and it is these same gods that created you.

The humanoid type, as I see it, has the principal particularity of being able to go on indefinitely throughout different bodies while keeping its individuality. This is not the privilege of animals nor many extraterrestrial advanced races including the majority of reptilians. This concept of individual survival to describe humanoids is adopted by many races and so, does not define all species able to build evolved technological civilizations. But this creation of humanoids has a good and a bad side. It is provided with a large vibratory palette which, doubled with its intelligence, gives him the advantage to be very versatile in his actions, his reactions and his observations, meaning his gestures, his emotions and his thoughts. The bad side of this capacity is that the humanoid can take steps, of his own initiative, that go beyond the acceptable as individual or collective behaviour. The majority of animals function on the principle of survival, the collaboration between individuals or group, the continuation in its descendants with a range of emotional reactions which allow to adjust to the unforeseen of their environment. The unjustified fears, the cruelty without reason, the accumulation of reserves and exaggerated goods do not exist or very little with them.

In reptilians who are a notch more evolved, the range of emotions and behaviour is a bit larger than animals but nonetheless more rudimentary than humans. You have to understand that this is due to individual death which does not allow to deepen the baggage of experiences of a life to another as for humans. The collective survival throughout the spirit-group keeps just the same a part of the individual heritage. In reptilians, between love, indifference and hate, there is very little nuances but which are just the same not insignificant. Their actions are moved by a few basic principles which do not tolerate negligences and distractions to discipline which create certain civilizations that advocate corporal punishments, temporary exclusion or life-long banishments of the community. But this is done in a rather just and proportioned frame to the fault. It is the long apprenticeship of how to maintain a certain balance in a collectivity. But it would not come to the mind of a reptilian, even very primitive, to torture another individual without reason or just for the pleasure of making suffer, humiliate, limit another without a valid reason. This is not the case in terrestrials that are able to best or worse possible acts. Your large possibility of expressions allows you big fits of love, generosity, altruism, compassion, empathy but on the other hand, worse cruelties, decline, deceit, wickedness and lust for power.

It is common at this moment to accuse certain reptilians of the worse atrocities that earth can cause as if they were playing, in secret, a role of a deceptive manipulator to abuse for dark reasons the poor innocent terrestrials without defense. I am sorry to tell you that you are able to accomplish the worse atrocities without the aid of individuals from the outside. Knowing well the worse behaviour of reptilians, they are nothing in comparison to what you are able to do to your brothers. They will never be able to equal what you have done in the past and still continue today on your planet as slavery, torture, genocide and slander of all kinds. The reptilians do not have your vast capacity to imagine the worst. But in counterpart, they will never be able to equal the grandiose and sublime gestures that you are capable of. Even my long evolution on earth and the mastery of many of your capacities will never equal the potential you have within you.

What I know of the history of the earth, before my arrival here, is that in this solar system, there were, a very long time ago, superior races which have implanted intelligent races that have gone awry and ransacked their planet one after another up to the last one in list which was mars. After almost its destruction by its inhabitants, the martians coveted the earth and its riches but it was forbidden by high-placed authorities. My world of origin was shaken by this series of calamities which obliged us to come in this sector to help restore a certain harmony. We were allowed to bring to the earth, about one hundred thousand years ago, a humanoid race to supposedly restore the balance. But results were quite deceiving. I decided then to come myself, about thirty-five thousand years ago, with a new humanoid prototype a lot more successful. It was the beginning of your history. Your coming on earth, brought by a very evolved reptilian race, has forced you, even though you were voluntary and had a high degree of perfection, to live in those less favourable conditions to the development of your full potential. But, in counterpart, this context has stimulated some of you to exceed and achieve a level of consciousness very evolved. That has brought superior beings to forbid all intervention on earth for a time. The earth is a magnificent laboratory. If your experience succeeds, you will have proved that you can be implanted in worlds relatively hostile at first glance and could progress nevertheless.

You can believe what you want but how can I explain to you, without hurting you, that you do harm yourself only by yourself. Some evolved reptilians have, many times, tried in the past to help, to give you a hand to make you evolve. At the origin, you have been created with an immense potential, so immense that we have been forced to express reservations and put limits so that your potential could develop at a rythm the most natural possible. I believe that it is with progressive evolution that we acquire capacities, faculties and that it is with merit, wisdom that we have the conviction to be able to assume them. A potential, a gift is an element which is often neutral at first and it is the one who acquires it that will do something with it to help him grow, evolve or on the contrary, that will serve to have some power over others, to enslave his colleagues.

Many humans believe that we have oppressed them, limited them in their potentials and that it is an attack to their liberty, to the right to be fully bloomed. But, at no time have you asked yourself the question that the potential that you already have, you use it in all possible ways including the worst that threaten your colleagues, threaten life on earth, threaten a whole ecosystem. If developing your potential means that a sole individual can create a bomb that can destroy all that exists on earth in a few minutes in the name of science, that it is to reduce your own children to slavery, to make them work till they become disabled and useless; that it is to use to torture during hours at a time another human being without any other reason than the sexual pleasure felt. Do you know many animals which ransack their environment, abuse their victim before eating them? For what reason do you do this? From a larger level of emotions and an intelligence well over most of animals. Animals have not luckily a level of emotions developed enough to become as twisted as this. And you ask yourself why we bully you in your capacities. The capacities may be neutral but because of what some of you do with them, you do not deserve the ones you have at this moment. It is a good thing that the majority of humans do sublime, grandiose things but what do we do with those that make the most monstrous acts we can imagine. There is a superior being who is ready to give you globally a 10% more of potential. I was the first to say that if each human makes the effort to prove that he is worthy of using a greater potential, I will give it with pleasure. Because of your shady past, I would never give a greater potential to the whole human race without distinction. You have not known the earth as I did during thousands of years. You have the faculty to obliterate a great part of your history especially the one that is not so glorious.

Throughout history, those who, as myself knew your origins, have almost all attempted to accelerate your evolution, your awarenesses. But, the planning of those attempts, should it not have been kept confidential between the elected? There were long discussions between those who were for you to keep your innocence, the secret of your origins and those who were for us to educate you rapidly on your potential and your real role. There were differences of opinion, confrontations, internal fights even. We had become what exasperated us in your world. I was part of those who imposed to hide the truth to best control your destiny. It was not obvious to put into your hands information which could make all experiences collapse. To teach you gradually seems to me safer. Each opening and progress are deserved especially in that part of the universe which asks for steady efforts in order to progress.

Several peoples say that reptilians would have brought in human sacrifices in many tribes, many communities. I will be clear. No, that has never existed and even less imposed. But trying to change bloodthirsty behaviours in primitive races where individuals constantly kill each other without valid reason by imposing a ritual where a lone individual is sacrificed for the gods? Yes. It is what we call making slowly advance certain behaviour by explaining that only gods have the right of life and death on humans. Several people say today that the guillotine invented two centuries previously by Mr. Guillotin was a barbarian instrument. People forget that it was created to make easier executions which were done before with an ax and which often did not kill the individual straight off but mutilated it before the fatal blow. You must always understand that, when you want to negotiate with barbarian people, you must implement by stages attitudes that improve slowly their behaviour. This improvement can be seen, with hindsight, by those who do not know the context as a bloodthirsty behaviour. But how can you make understand people that consider life as having no value, that kill each other without having any consciousness of what they do, to have mutual respect. We must arrive, as in a sport, to quantify, to codify behaviours to give them the impression that they cannot kill another person except in a precise frame, with important reasons. I do not know if you follow me. Then, the ritualisation of human sacrifices is there to improve a society with a behaviour entirely anarchic in the face of the value of an individual. A human being that we sacrifice only to give as an offering to a god or any authority is a way to explain that a human life has some importance. It is terrible what I am saying. But it is certain that there have been terrestrial leaders who came to kill thousands of human beings while saying that the more they will sacrifice, the more the gods will be happy and satisfied. There is, again, a deviation typically human that is based on the more we do, the better it is; another more evolved behaviour that is diverted from his primary reason. The rituals of animal sacrifices that are still practiced by certain peoples are there again an improvement to replace ancient sacrifices practiced by their ancestors.

The principal problem you are living with is that you have been created by a reptilian race of high level and which has believed that you could bring a new element to evolution; but you have been implanted in a part of the universe which was already occupied by more primitive extraterrestrial reptilian races and which have the right to claim this sector including the earth. Nevertheless, since you are a particular race, in fact a more performing prototype, superior entities have maintained the right to your self-determination on this planet and that any external interference was forbidden. Is this law respected? Not entirely. Are there attempts to dominate on earth? Yes, but in a very restricted framework with limits not to be crossed at the risk of serious sanctions. I repeat, there is no race which is wicked, negative or oppressing in itself but it is true that there are individuals that are moved by intentions that if you compare them to your most evolved civilizations, can be regressive. Yourself, you have developed in 35-40 thousands of years a great range of behaviours that goes from one extreme to another. So, imagine reptilians who have sixty millions years of evolution. Even with a palette of emotions more narrow, they have developed, with time, subtleties at other levels that if you were to meet them, you would discover numerous reptilian civilizations very diversified.

There are no civilizations that can continue for very long based on unhealthy values, oppressing for the majority of its citizens. They always end up by transforming themselves for the better or they self-destruct inexorably.

When you meet human beings who consider the freedom of expression as relative, who are limited, fanatical or intentionally cruel, what is your reaction in front of them? Do you feel like condemning, rejecting, ignoring them or simply tolerating them? You say to yourself that these beings are not at the same level of evolution as you and that maybe, some day, they will evolve and understand. Are you ready to accept them as they are and mix with them while hoping that with your contact, they will change for the better? Then, say to yourself that with reptilians, it is the same situation. There are reptilians who have a vision not very equalitarian according to our and your more advanced criteria. So, will you judge, despise and even hate them because they have not yet understood what you already know? We do not ask anybody to be meek but to show understanding. Why should it be an exception when it comes to other races than terrestrials.

I spent more than one hundred thousand years to study the behaviour of millions of forms of life. I saw and assessed all. Do you think that I have a limited vision of what life can bring as differences, nuances, strangeness and even aberrations? As I have almost seen all types of behaviors, if there is someone who cannot judge anything, it is me. I cannot base myself on any morality to say that this is good and this is not. You must know entirely the context of the place, of the time and the situation to have the right to have a say, and even after that, I do not have to judge according to my values. I can help them up to a certain point to develop a way of being more progressive but still, the final choice belongs only to them.

There are no people that tolerate for long a situation that they consider unequal or repressive. It is up to them, when they have reached a point that a majority does not accept a situation anymore, to decide to change the rules, the laws that govern the group. It is not up to me, from the exterior, to come and impose a way to behave that I consider more just or more evolved. I can, by my example, show that there are other possible options and if this awakens in them a change, bravo. No need for long speeches to give guidelines of evolution. When time will come for you to mix with other citizens of the universe, I hope that you will remember my words.

You have the chance to possess a sensibility and a range of emotions that are unknown to most reptilians but that are not missed by us since unknown to us. Me, I had 'the chance' to live long enough on earth to acquire certain characteristics allotted to terrestrial humanoids but by going through a long apprenticeship. I hope some day to share it with my brothers. I sincerely believe that you have a great potential that exceeds our own capacities but that is still rudimentary in most. It is not desirable that it develops too rapidly without the wisdom that should go with it. If you are restricted in your development, it is the consequence of your own acts in the past that were in several periods a menace for the balance of your immediate environment and the one larger of the surrounding universe. We have established bolts in you that keep you in certain limits to protect you from yourselves and also protect us from you. But the keys exist and every day, terrestrials find some thanks to their efforts and then open doors on unsuspected capacities.

By living here on earth more than thirty thousand years ago, I only have acquired a small part of your possibilities. Be thus proud of your experiences and your potential. Thank the reptilian race of high level that created you and have positive thoughts towards my reptilian brothers who are more primitive. It was allowed to you to develop on a planet that was, a priori, hostile but that has given you a unique chance to prove your real worth.

Colin

Here is a more intimate comment on the reptilian race made by a reptilian that I have been meeting since childhood. But, in introduction, here is another passage of 'Under hypnosis' where I talk about him.

---

Yes...I asked him to come...I told him "listen listen, we've known each other for so long that it is time for you to come and see me consciously and that we chatter directly from one person to another." I trust him and he trusts me; he respects me and I respect him and...honestly, if he is not there, I do not collaborate much. Without him, I feel a little lost in front of the others who have...I understand them!...but I cannot say that their way of doing things is...eh. No ok, they are not mean. They are all right. They are what they are but I cannot say that they are...pleasant to have around in the sense that they do not laugh, do not play, are always serious, have many manners, protocoles; they are always rather distant, a bit cold, not very communicative. All that means that they are friendly to a certain point but...I would not spend an afternoon seated with them to chat. Their mentality is so different... They have not learned to be lighthearted, laugh, simply talk for the sake of talking. They are not beings who are able to enjoy a good time, that is clear. They are persons, which we can say, are serious...serious in everything they do. For them, all is always serious and important. So, at some point...

While my friend has learned to...go a little beyond the boundaries of what is appointed to him. He has become someone a lot more warm-hearted with whom it is pleasant to be. So when he is not there...no, I will be clear. When he is not there "I am willing to go but you do what you have to do. If it's a check-up...if it is an exam or fitness work; you do what you have to do and after, you take me back home and that's all right." If my friend is there, I allow myself to stay longer, visit and chat. If he is there, I can even discuss with others because he will help to make them understand why I say such a thing or why I think such a thing. So, others are a little less on their defensive. As an intermediary, he helps explain..."ah well, do you see, that's how a human behaves..." which makes the others say "ah! yes yes!" The reptilians, they are very intelligent beings which must understand everything. Them... how can I explain...they love controlling their environment, they love to have a control on all so when they see me act and don't understand why I act a certain way, that confuses them. My friend explains then "humans act in such a way because of such reason." So, the others can answer "ah! ok yes yes we understand." They are happy and proud to have understood. Reptilians love understanding... understanding how everything works. The way trees, flowers grow; how laws act behind things...and I will say something a little crazy...they almost become ecstatic when they understand a phenomenon of nature or a principle of the universe. They become like elated because they are under the impression that, when seizing it, they can best control it up to a certain point. Then, when my friend is there, he can serve as an intermediary and the others are then warmer which means they are less on their defensive towards me.

---

My reptilian friend

I don't know how to speak of myself. I have twenty thousand years of existence which is not much compared with Naja. But, this gives me just the same a past of experiences that makes me capable to be the guardian of Colin. I am ready to defend him at all times even at the price of my life. It is my role and it means a lot to me. I am not a leader nor a person with a flamboyant personality as Colin but I am trustworthy and honest with the conviction that my role is important. The entity which is in Colin is a marvelous being, full of wisdom that my people want at all costs to protect. It is an irreplaceable memory of our history and it is important for us to keep the testimonies of the past that have made us what we are. Moreover, our main goal in life is to be the memory of this universe by listing all forms of life that are accessible to us. The global history is precious and we do everything to preserve it for future generations. We can draw from it many reflections and teachings.

I am proud of belonging to people strong and brave which have convictions, respect of traditions, a code of honor towards brothers, family and race. There is a great solidarity between us that allowed us to go through many ordeals in the past. Even though the reptilian race, to which I belong, is not as evolved as the one belonging to Naja, we have developed, with time, undeniable qualities. Among them, the sharing without condition of our properties, our food; protection of our weakest and constant efforts to improve general conditions.

Even though our society can look rigid to certain terrestrials, since I have been mixing with Colin, I have discovered other values that were unknown to me before; compassion, empathy, sadness towards injustice, joy of a good action and right to lightness, carefreeness, right to laugh of his errors, clumsiness, pride to be different, unique. My role as protector of the entity in Colin makes me a highly respected and admired being and I have the duty to be worthy of that position.

My people is very ancient and was an implanted prototype in many regions of the universe. We are less sophisticated than humans who have a larger range of behaviours but in counterpart, we are very resistant in the hostile environments to begin with. We have been created especially to live and develop in a large range of environments; even though we have a predilection for hot and humid regions, we can adapt to extreme climates; we can feed from all forms of food even the most tough ones or even refrain from it on a very long period.

We can consider ourselves as a very primitive stage of intelligence endowed of the faculty to create civilizations in a rough and inhospitable matter. Our primary reason was really to create civilizations in worlds poor in resources. There are currently thousands of subspecies going from most primitive, almost animal and carnivorous, to vegetarian races endowed with language and up to highly evolved beings living in worlds of high frequencies and feeding with only prana.

The diversity in appearance and behaviour is immense. The most common sizes can go from 2 feet  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 12 feet of height. The colors, as your chameleons, go from iridescent green through blue-green, yellow-orange, orange-red, red-brown, yellow-brown and green-brown. The skin can be like leather, scales or velvety hair. We have from 3 to 6 fingers with or without nails or claws. Some have protuberances on the head that go from 2 to 5 horns rarely detached from the skull. It is often a sign that identifies soldiers or protectors. The snout can be prominent or almost flat. There is a certain racism towards those with more pronounced snouts that define a more animal character. There are all lengths of tails going from twice the length of the body up to its total absence. It is an attraction of beauty and seduction in certain races. The eyes are mainly with a vertical iris with colors going from yellow-orange-red or green-blue. The primitive have an articulate language based on guttural sounds and clicking of the tongue. Those that are evolved the slightest master the language of the thought.

It is true that most of our societies are more or less chauvinist. The male has a predominance on the female because he has played for a long time a role of an adventurer or defender. But there is a great respect for the female because of children she engenders and also, because she possesses faculties of her own. She can influence the thought of the other, suggest and even lead by thought. She picks up also frequencies that allow to perceive elements belonging to the subconscious, the future or a parallel destiny. She can calm aggressive beings or make stop quarrels and fights. They are, in one word, more intuitive. She possesses nuances of behaviours that make her more subtle than the majority of males.

Young beings are born almost already autonomous and parental attachment is not very strong if not only for the importance of the continuity of the lineage. This looks like your patriarchal societies. Tenderness, affection and loving links, dear to humans, are not very developed and often even seen as a weakness of character. They are rites of approaches more elaborate and distinct for each race. In our city-vessels, since space is planned and controlled, each couple can only have two descendants. That is what I have myself and they are my pride. I see them rarely but keep contact by thought. My mate is an archivist in the field of chronology of explorations and discoveries. Our libraries of archives are in fact immense beyond what you can imagine. My children are in construction and repairs of vessel compartments. I am formally forbidden to reveal whatsoever on our transportation systems, engineering and technology. You surely can understand that it is for protection purposes. It is true that we are suspicious to pass on our achievements.

We love ceremonies, formal parties, award ceremonials, diplomas, mentions of honor. Since the unknown scares us, understanding the universe, listing all forms of life, their ways of functioning, their customs is our main work and leisure. The knowledge, under all its aspects, is our great pride. We are, in general, responsible people, trustworthy, united, ready to self-abnegation, keep our word and lie only if we are forced to in order to save a situation.

We have competitive games needing strength, skill and intelligence. Me, I am more in strength and skill games. Arts like music, painting and theater are before all an expression of balance, proportion or testimony. The beauty must have a reason, a function to be admired. Words and useless acts are badly seen. We talk little but in counterpart, we develop an interior secret world that is entrusted to few persons. That is to counterbalance our exterior world quite rigid. It is accepted and not too much admitted. That faculty to create a very elaborate imaginary world is even cut off from the other part of the mental that others could read.

We can consider reptilians as a first attempt of evolved beings capable of creating technological civilizations that were introduced in the material universe. The humanoid prototype is an experience more recent that has more important capacities but as our species is a lot more ancient in evolution years, this compensates and give advantages. It is true that I envy the human potential that I learned to appreciate from spending so much time with Colin. He shares easily his way of life and helps me understand how I can evolve to become more flexible and more serene facing life and its mysteries. I do not have the gift of the gab. It is not in my nature.

You are master of this earth but earth is in a territory vested normally to reptilians. You are in their territory and they could have the right to claim this place. That's what they have done in the past but high-placed authorities have maintained the statu quo because in superior federations, it is forbidden to interfere on a planet in its course of evolution. That is what has saved you up to now from an interference from their part even if I doubt that a small faction waives in this ban. Me, I am part of those who have a great respect for the superior reptilian species which have created you and I contribute, in my way, to your protection. Even though you are an experience more or less illegal, you have the right and the support to continue your evolution down here.

Colin

Here it is! This is information on reptilians that I have received since my series of hypnosis sessions. I can be wrong on some of this information and even on their true role on earth but me, I trust them. It is not because reptilians express themselves by thought that they control necessarily our mental; it is not because they are watching and studying us that they try to manipulate us; it is not because they are discreet that they have bad intentions and that they are evil. We, ourselves, watch tribes or groups of animals while keeping a certain distance and trying to intervene the least possible in their evolution by respect.

Before knowing the identity of my 'abductors', I received from them a teaching highly universal and advanced that made me more aware of the value of all forms of life. As many other abductees, I raised awareness to the respect of my planet which shelters and nourishes me. I learned to protect plant and animal life of which in a way I am the guardian, the conscious big brother. How could I, now that I know their identity, see any kind of hostility.

I am living more and more in a state of constant serenity with a positive divine energy in me. If beings play with my innocence or my trust given to them, it is them that will find themselves with a karma they will have to undergo, the return of their own acts through the other. I only have to fear the return of my own acts, words and thoughts but I will live them in all knowledge of the facts while hoping to have the humility to take the responsibility. We have to get out of this vicious circle where all strangeness is a potential menace. I cannot deny, nor underestimate all the wisdom of superior worlds that I have received thanks to my contacts with reptilians of high level. I have then decided in my life not to lose my time to set up walls between me and others but on the contrary, build bridges with all living beings regardless of their origin.

It is my vision.

Colin Chabot

